

U.S. Troops Begin Khe Sanh Pullout

SAIGON (UPI) — American troops today began a pullout from the Khe Sanh headquarters of the U.S. support of the Laotian campaign. The remaining handful of South Vietnamese forces in Laos moved back across the border under heavy Communist fire.

Communist troops and tanks were reported moving east from Laos toward Khe Sanh, which came under heavy rocket attack today.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said there were 2,000 to 3,000 troops left in Laos from the peak of 24,000 soldiers who carried out a six-week drive to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail, the primary Communist supply line into South Vietnam and Cambodia.

UPI Correspondent Stuart Kellerman said flight after flight of C130 Hercules transport planes airlifted men and supplies out of Khe Sanh on an around-the-clock schedule. More than 80 rockets hit the Khe Sanh airstrip early today.

A new bipartisan effort to get all U. S. troops out of Southeast Asia by the end of the year is in the works in Washington . . . Story Page 32.

South Vietnamese Marines conducted their pullout from Laos without radio communications in an effort to keep their movements secret, Saigon sources said.

Kellerman said troops pulling out of Khe Sanh included 100 men from the 101st Airborne Division, Air Force administrative units and South Vietnamese Rangers and Marines who had guarded the base perimeter.

Khe Sanh, 12 miles from the Laotian border, was under siege 77 days in 1968, abandoned, and then reactivated for use by U.S. forces supporting the Laotian drive, which began Feb. 8.

Communist armor and infantry units were reported moving east toward the base from Laos. U.S. spokesmen said 101st Airborne Division helicopters attacked three Soviet-made tanks less than a mile west of the border town of Lao Bao on Highway 9.

The choppers destroyed one tank and damaged the others. Air strikes knocked out three other tanks six miles northwest of Lao Bao.

"The way the Communists are moving, they'll be on top of this place (Khe Sanh) in a week," said 1st Lt. Erick Hentz, 25, of Spokane, Wash., a helicopter pilot.

An officer supervising the withdrawal from Khe Sanh said, "We want to get the heavy things out as soon as possible. The way the withdrawal (from Laos) is going we may have to move out quickly and we want to be as mobile as possible."

U.S. spokesmen also reported the loss of three American helicopters, one in South Vietnam, another over eastern Cambodia and one in Laos. Three crewmen were killed, four missing and one wounded.

American crews who manned the fleet of 600 helicopters that gave them support from Khe Sanh Base 12 miles from the Laotian border also continued their withdrawal.

Official communiques said only two South Vietnamese bases remained in Laos—Dong Da and Hong Ha. At the height of the operation which began Feb. 8 the South Vietnamese had more than a dozen bases. Their deepest penetration was 27 miles into Laos to Sepone, a key junction on the Communist supply trail that is their main route into South Vietnam and Cambodia.

U.S. spokesmen said today this week's air strikes over North Vietnam were the heaviest since November's "protective reaction" strikes against Communist anti-aircraft sites and supply lines.

Committee to Hold Hearing

Rolison Has Jetport Doubts

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The Authorities Committee of the State Senate will hold public hearings in April on a proposal to convert Stewart Field in Newburgh into a fourth jetport for New York City, Senator Jay P. Rolison, committee chairman, told The Freeman today.

Rolison, a Republican who represents Dutchess and Ulster Counties, said his seven-man committee would be meeting next Tuesday to set a date for the public hearing, expected to be in mid-April in Newburgh.

"All we've heard is rumors and what we've read in the papers," Rolison told The Freeman, referring to reports published on Monday that Gov. Rockefeller would be coming to the legislature this year for funding to convert the old air base outside of Newburgh into a modern jetport.

"Frankly, I'm disturbed about the way it broke," Rolison said. "None of the area's legislators was informed of the governor's plans, if indeed the governor has plans for the conversion of Stewart Field."

Rolison said that he had "serious reservations" about the proposal. "It will have serious ramifications for that area of the Hudson Valley, particularly southern Ulster and Dutchess Counties."

"No one has come up with any cost figures on this project," Rolison said, "but it's obviously going to be substantial. In addition, there's the question of damage to the environment. We're going to have to study this issue very carefully."

Rolison said that he has received numerous letters from residents in the (Newburgh) area in opposition to the conversion. "It's been my experience that on any issue the anti's are always more vocal. We'll have to put things in the proper perspective."

Rolison's Authorities Committee also includes Senators

Richard Schermerhorn of Cornwall, Tarky Lombardi Jr. of Syracuse, William T. Conklin and David Halpern of Brooklyn, Ronald B. Stafford of Plattsburgh and Sidney Von Luther of Manhattan. Von Luther and Halpern are Democrats.

It is expected that the Metropolitan Transportation Authority would operate the jetport, thus it would come under the Rolison Committee's jurisdiction. "I presume the MTA will ask for an increase in its borrowing power to cover the cost of this expansion," Rolison said. "This committee would act on that request."

In the meantime, Rolison wants a full airing of the facts before any action is taken.

"I think we have to look at both sides of this issue," he said. "There's little doubt that a jetport at Stewart Field would be an economic boon to our area. However, there are other considerations."

Expansion of Stewart Field into a major jetport is expected to require the lengthening of the present 7,000-foot runways left by the Air Force when it vacated the base two years ago, to 10,000 which the major airlines prefer. In addition, a "buffer zone" would involve the taking of up to 2,000 acres surrounding the field.

Newburgh Mayor George F. McKenney is a strong advocate of the jetport, while, on the other hand, Senator Schermerhorn, a member of Rolison's committee, is just as strongly opposed to it.

Debrosky on New Welfare: Waste of Taxpayer Money

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — Ulster County's "new" welfare system, due to go into effect July 1, "is only a more efficient method of giving away more taxpayer dollars," Legislator Glen Debrosky (R-Dist. 7) charged today.

"Hiring 32 more employees is not efficiency," he declared.

Debrosky and several other legislators, including Lester C. Elmendorf (R-Dist. 2) have been most critical of the state's proposal that Ulster make a huge change in its welfare system.

The new program calls for among other things, the hiring of additional personnel in order to free caseworkers from mountainous piles of paper work.

Following an executive session of the Ulster County Legislature at which the State Deputy Commissioner of Welfare Clifford P. Talcott outlined the new system, Debrosky assailed the plan and made proposals for improving the system.

Quoting Talcott as saying that the county could hire some of its "unfortunates" in the welfare department at a salary of $4,000 a year, Debrosky points out that the amount is actually $500 less than a family of four will receive under Gov. Rockefeller's welfare program.

Special

Elmendorf, speaking at the executive session asked state representatives what the Department of Social Services has done in the last five years? "What has it accomplished to solve the problem of indiscriminate proliferation of children born out of wedlock?"

Saying he did not get an answer to his specific question, the Town of Ulster legislator said "I think it is a disgrace to allow this problem to mushroom to the extent that there is no apparent attempt on the part of the State Department of Social Services to try to check the additional expenditure of additional millions of dollars each succeeding year."

"I think the state is bending over backwards to accede to the wishes of welfare rights organizations without considering the rights of the taxpayers," he concluded.

Debrosky told of Talcott's reported vacillating on the number of additional employees needed. The number varied from 32 to 15 and at one point it was suggested that maybe only seven would be needed to initiate the program. However, Debrosky claims that the state can't very well mandate more employees this year if the county has not made accommodation for them in its current fiscal budget.

The Rosendale legislator offered a four-point program for improving the welfare system.

- Put all able-bodied people to work—in the field of maintenance, in the county home or infirmary and pay the going wage for the job up to the amount they are getting on welfare.
- Warn all mothers of illegitimate children that aid will not be forthcoming beyond the second child. "After two strikes, the ballgame's over," Debrosky suggested. Aid to dependent children is welfare's biggest expense.

- Urge taxpayers to get in touch with Gov. Rockefeller opposing his new welfare proposals, Debrosky said that one-third of the Ulster County employees (excluding highway department) will soon take home less money than a family of four will receive under Rockefeller's new plan.
- Give people on welfare no more than the minimum wage, no matter how many children they have.

Debrosky also adamantly opposes a state takeover of welfare, feeling that control should remain with the localities.

Concluding, he said a number of Ulster County legislators appear to be against the mandate.

The new system, first outlined in The Daily Freeman last November calls for eliminating the 100 per cent validation system in which caseworkers determine eligibility of welfare clients.

Instead, a declaration type application for cash assistance will be required.

When eligibility is determined, the case will be passed on to a validation staff for further determination.

Face to face interviews will be required and an on-the-spot decision will be made by eligibility workers.

The client's income, maintenance needs, namely for extra allowances, application for fair hearings, changes in grant and emergencies will be handled by one or more income maintenance teams.

Talcott pointed out that the system would be more efficient, provide better working conditions for the caseworker and lessen complaints from clients and other groups, including churches.

Senate Plans City Session To Observe Anniversary

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Senate may travel to Kingston next month to hold a working session in the Hudson River city that once served as the state capital.

Senate sources reported today that Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges has been seriously considering such a trip in observance of the 194th anniversary of the adoption of the first State Constitution.

The document was approved by a Constitutional Convention there on April 20, 1777. Among other things it created the Senate and other groups, including their journey on April 20 and of about 25 senators came to Kingston and held a symbolic session on the occasion of the 350th anniversary of Henry Hudson's exploration of the Hudson River.

Rigby said that at that time consideration was given to having all 57 of the state senators in attendance but it was not physically possible to accommodate them for a working session in the Senate House itself.

Today's announcement of the proposal is the first confirmation of the Kingston Historical Society has received that the plan may be carried out. Several months ago, the group learned that the state was interested and had looked into the Senate House as a fitting and proper place for observing the anniversary of its constitution.

It also would be perfectly legal, they say, since there is no requirement in state law that the legislature transact its business in Albany.

In fact Albany does not even have official recognition as the state's capital. A bill that would bestow that status on the city has been passed by the Assembly and is awaiting Senate action—but it would not bind the legislature to Albany meetings only.

Buckley Declares Support

Last Hour SST Drive by Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wavering and uncommitted senators were the target of a last-minute White House blitz today as the Senate prepared to decide the fate of the supersonic transport plane.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said President Nixon would be telephoning certain senators in advance of the late afternoon crucial vote, considered a toss-up in the final hours.

Nine senators were considered uncommitted.

The President spent 15 minutes at the White House Tuesday afternoon talking to Conservative - Republican Sen. James Buckley of New York.

Buckley later declared his support of the proposal before the Senate—whether to approve $134 million for continued development of two SST prototypes through June 30.

Buckley, however, said he had sought and received a presidential pledge that no commercial SSTs would be built until environmental arguments against it were met.

The President's personal role in the battle became known as the Senate began final debate in a barrage of charge and counter-charge summing up the arguments of two years.

Opponents forecast dire consequences to the ecology, hammering hard at warnings of some scientists that commercial fleets of SSTs might cause a sharp increase in skin cancer by disrupting the atmosphere.

Backers of the 1,800-mile-per-hour plane dismissed such arguments as unproven and said the craft is needed to bolster national prestige, the aerospace industry and employment.

They have pointed to a joint British-French SST and a Soviet supersonic plane, both much further advanced than the U.S. effort, as a reason why the American product should be developed.

The Soviet TU144 prototype already has been test flown and the plane is reported ready for production sometime this year. It is expected Moscow would be willing to negotiate some of the traditional Soviet barriers in dealing with the West in turn for orders of the TU144.

Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Appropriations Committee, predicted a two-vote victory for the SST.

Although the House voted 215 to 204 to halt federal funding of the SST last week, Ellender's committee subsequently put back in a $7.2-billion transportation measure, the vehicle for today's vote.

Senate staffers charged with head counting for the leaders of both sides were cautious as the showdown approached, predicting a 49-49 split that would leave it up to the tie-breaking power of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Two senators are ill and not expected to vote.

The undecided senators were Clinton Anderson, D-Mo.; John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.; Peter Dominick, R-Colo.; Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.; Russell Long, D-La.; Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md.; Gale McGee, D-Wyo.; Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, and Stuart Symington, D-Mo.

The transportation bill provides SST funds only through the end of this fiscal year when the administration has requested a new appropriation of $235 million.

The government already has spent $866 million over the past 10 years to help Boeing Co. and General Electric develop the two prototypes.

A total of $1.3 billion in federal outlays has been projected before they are ready to fly in 1973.

Ordinarily, Senate agreement with the House would kill a project like the SST. But the White House has hinted it may have alternate proposals to put forward and has not said whether it would fight the whole battle of appropriations over again, should it lose this round.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania told newsmen after a two-hour meeting with Nixon Tuesday that no alternatives were "under active consideration."

But President Nixon's science advisor, Dr. Edward E. David Jr., said in an interview Tuesday only completion of the prototypes "will tell us whether it's feasible to have such an airplane, such a mode of transportation."

He said that if Congress calls a halt to further federal role, "we will just have to find another way."

Four Jurors Seated for the Arnold Trial

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON — Four jurors were seated late Tuesday after 19 prospective veniremen were examined by counsel for both sides at the murder trial of 30-year-old Ronald Arnold of Kerhonkson, who is accused in the fatal shooting of a woman in the Town of Accord on June 1, 1970.

County Judge Raymond J. Mino adjourned court late in the day until 2 p. m. today when selection of a jury of 12 was to resume. It was announced prior to adjournment that Judge Mino would preside at a session of court this morning when several defendants arrested during the narcotics raids last Friday morning were scheduled to appear.

District Attorney Francis J. Vogt, who is prosecuting the murder case, and Francis Martocci, counsel for the defendant, each will have 30 peremptory challenges in selecting the jury that will decide the guilt or innocence of Arnold, who is charged with the murder of 31-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth Blaustein of Allgerville.

The defense has used eight peremptory challenges and the People used seven before yesterday's session of the trial concluded.

At 3:30 p. m. District Attorney Vogt announced the jury was satisfactory to the People at that hour, but after a recess challenges were used and only four jurors were accepted.

Other potential jurors were called and the box filled with 12 ready for this afternoon's questioning by counsel for both sides.

Judge Mino continued the accused Kerhonkson man, in bail of $10,000.

During examination of prospective jurors, Martocci remarked, "We are not asking for sympathy in this case, all we want is a fair trial for this defendant."

At the opening of the first day of trial, Judge Mino examined the jurors and explained that an indictment returned by a grand jury charging the defendant with having brought about the death of Mrs. Blaustein, is merely an accusation.

Mino emphasized to the jurors that defendant is presumed to be innocent throughout the court proceedings, and he explained that the defendant does not have to prove his innocence and does not have to take the witness stand at trial.

The burden of proof in the case rests with the prosecution, Mino noted.

At the afternoon session, the district attorney reported that the prosecution expects to call at least 14 witnesses, who will include State Police who investigated the shooting incident last June, some residents of the Town of Accord area, a pathologist and other medical men and experts from the State Police laboratory upstate.

Arnold previously entered a plea of innocent to the murder count.

The shooting incident occurred off Route 209 in the Town of Accord at about 1 a. m. on June 1.

Authorities theorized that Arnold allegedly shot the woman several times and then turned the gun, described by investigators as a 9 mm automatic pistol on himself, inflicting serious wounds of the head.

Mrs. Blaustein, the mother of three, reportedly drove her station wagon about five miles from the spot where the double shooting allegedly occurred. She was discovered slumped over in the vehicle by a passing truck driver who sounded the horn of the truck to arouse nearby residents and summon police.

The mortally wounded woman was taken to the Ellenville Community Hospital where she later died. An autopsy disclosed death was due to massive internal hemorrhages caused by lacerations of the liv-

Parking Ban Looms Uptown

Prohibitive parking in the stockade area of uptown Kingston will be adopted, but not before city officials meet with uptown businessmen.

According to Peter Mancuso (D-12th Ward chairman of the Traffic Committee of the Common Council, city officials who attended a meeting in Mayor Francis R. Koenig's office Tuesday night are in "complete agreement" that there will "definitely be some changes in on-street parking" in the uptown business district.

Mancuso said current plans call for parking on the west side of Fair Street from North Front Street to Pearl Street; the elimination of parking spaces on the north side of North Front Street from the parking garage to the parking lot several hundred feet west and the elimination of all parking on John Street.

Mancuso added that parking will not be restricted on Wall or Crown Streets.

The Traffic Committee chairman said that a 30-day trial period could be implemented by executive order from the mayor at any time, but he added that it was doubtful that any action would be taken until city officials meet with uptown businessmen, who are reportedly opposed to restrictive parking in the stockade area.

Mancuso said the mayor would have the approval of all members of the traffic committee if he ordered the parking ban to be implemented on a trial basis.

"We're trying to be as fair as possible to the uptown businessmen," said Mancuso, "but, more so, we're trying to be fair to the patrons."

Attending the meeting were members of the Traffic and Urban renewal committees, in addition to Mancuso and Koenig.

College Board OKs Phase 2 Increase

STONE RIDGE — A $403,633 increase in the Phase II construction budget was approved Tuesday night by members of the board of trustees of Ulster County Community College. The amount was $188,805 less than the $592,438 originally requested.

The proposal will be offered to the community college committee of the Ulster County Legislature for review at a meeting March 29. It will then be presented for action to the county legislature. Upon approval by the county legislature the request will then be forwarded to the board of trustees of the University of the State of New York for approval.

The additional $403,633 in construction funds is needed because the original $4.5 million allocation for Phase II was made in 1966. Construction costs have escalated considerably since that time with the state university architect estimating the increase at between 13 and 16 per cent.

The additional construction funds are needed to purchase equipment for Vanderlyn Hall and Senate Gymnasium, now nearing completion, and for equipment for other campus buildings. Also included are funds for an audio tutorial lab, a nursing lab, renovation of faculty offices, and maintenance garage and roadway construction.

On the motion of Mrs. George Bushnell the board adjourned its meeting in memory of the late Dr. Ina C. Sartorius of Accord who died recently. She was one of the original trustees of the community college and had resigned in 1967 due to reasons of health.

Saugerties Police Seek Clues to Two Burglaries

SAUGERTIES — Police continued investigation today seeking clues that might lead to arrests in connection with recent burglaries at the U.S. Post Office and Beadle's Pharmacy on Main Street, according to Police Chief Gordon Keeley.

In both instances the intruder, or intruders evidently were frightened away by the arrival of police vehicles, the chief said.

Early Tuesday, a barking dog aroused occupants over the pharmacy, and police were notified. Officers Louis Barbara and William Kimble were dispatched to the drug store shortly after 2 a. m. to investigate.

Keeley said police discovered a glass broken in a rear outer door and another door leading into the pharmacy had been jimmied. Examination of merchandise and the office disclosed nothing had been taken.

"Whoever had been in there apparently was scared away and had left before police arrived in response to the telephone call," Keeley said.

Early Monday morning, Officer Edward Peterson on a routine tour of the business establishments in the village, discovered entry had been gained to the post office. He contacted police headquarters and called for assistance, believing burglars might still be in the office.

State police went to the scene to assist but search of the building found no trace of any intruders, Chief Keeley said the would be burglars evidently had been scared off with the arrival of Peterson.

Two tanks containing oxygen and acetylene were found on the floor near the safe along with torches that had been used in a futile attempt to open the 7 x 5-foot safe, Keeley said. The tanks reportedly had been stolen from Jay Steel Products, Inc., on Horton Boulevard sometime Sunday, police reported.

Holes had been burned in the safe, according to investigators. Nothing of value was missing.

Clergyman Winner In D. C. Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter E. Fauntroy, a Yale-educated clergyman who learned his civil rights activism from the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has won the District of Columbia's first seat in Congress in 100 years.

The 37-year-old Negro Democrat won 59 per cent of the vote and carried all black sections of the city Tuesday in the six-man race for nonvoting delegate to the House of Representatives.

Republican Jack A. Nevius, a moderate-to-liberal Republican, was second with 25 per cent of the vote. Nevius, who is white, carried the mainly white precinct that includes wealthy Georgetown.

Independent Julius W. Hobson, a Negro, was third with 13 per cent. Three others—an avowed homosexual, a black nationalist and a Socialist Workers Party candidate—polled 2 per cent or less each.

That Fauntroy would lead the field in this city 71 per cent black where registered Democrats outnumber Republicans 6 to 1 was a foregone conclusion. But many predicted Nevius, Hobson and the others would draw enough votes to hold Fauntroy below the 40 per cent required for election, thus forcing a runoff.

With all 128 precincts reported, the unofficial count gave Fauntroy 66,119, Nevius 28,044 and Hobson 15,019.

At a victory rally early this morning Fauntroy said he will work to win full congressional representation for the government-run city's 756,000 residents. However, he stopped short of urging statehood for the District, as Hobson had done in his campaign.

Until this year District residents were allowed to vote only for president and the school board. While Fauntroy will have no vote in House action, he will be allowed to vote in committee, make floor speeches, offer legislation and hire an office staff. He will receive the same $42,500 salary as other congressmen.

Hasbrouck Renamed to SHA Board

KINGSTON — Kenneth E. Hasbrouck of New Paltz, Ulster County Historian, has been reappointed to another five-year term to the board of trustees of the Senate House Association, Kingston.

The announcement was made today by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller at Albany. The trustees receive no salary.

Hasbrouck, who serves as secretary is a director and president of Huguenot Village Historic Sites in New Paltz and is town historian for New Paltz, Gardiner and Shawangunk. He also serves as New Paltz Village historian.

The county historian was first named to the board of trustees in 1960 when he succeeded Mrs. Harriet Allen Kerr of New Paltz, whose term expired. He is a teacher in Wallkill Central School and was named in 1969 as chairman of the nine-member County Historical Landmarks Commission.

Other trustees are John P. Remensnyder, president; Alan L. Hanstein, Capt. Andrew S. Hickey (USN Ret.), William Heidger, Fred J. Johnston, Albert Kurdt, Mrs. Robert A. MacKinnon, Mrs. Thomas W. Reynolds Jr., and Mrs. Francis X. Tucker.

Guest of Congressman Fish

Youth Observes Congress at Work

By LYNN MULVANEY

STONE RIDGE
Preconceived ideas about the U.S. Congress as well as the 28th District's own Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., changed somewhat for Rondout Valley High School senior John Rider since his recent two-day visit to Washington, D.C. as the guest of Congressman Fish.

Rider, who plans to be a political science major in college next fall, was recently elected "Congressman for a Day" in the Youth-In-Government competition sponsored among nine area high schools by the Ulster County Legislature.

During his two days in the nation's capitol, Fish had John make a temporary House page, so that he would be able to be on the floor of the House, enabling him to have a sense of participation in floor action and debate, the congressman said.

Interviewed by The Freeman, John said he felt Congress, work that goes on there.

while in session ill-used its time. He said he felt the session itself was drawn out, with too much formality and very poor attendance. As an example, he cited the fact that the House, which was to be in session from noon until 5 p.m. both days, actually met from noon to 2 p.m. each day. During his Washington visit, John spent much time in Congressman Fish's private office in order to get the feel of the Congress, work that goes on there.

Commenting, John said he felt that Fish used his time well, dividing it fairly evenly between keeping appointments and conferring with persons who dropped in to see him. Young Rider said he was surprised to find that the congressman spends as much time with district problems as he does national affairs. He was impressed too, he said, with the fact that he found that Fish, whom he thought gave blanket approval to all of President Nixon's programs, actually does not go along with the President 100 per cent of the time.

A member of the "People's Party" in the Youth-In-Government competition, John lauded the program for its ability to have students take an active part in government on all levels.

He suggests, however, that in the future some thought be given to making the three top candidates known to students of all participating schools in order that "they know whom they are voting for." John said that in the past election, students voted for candidates of their own high school whom they knew or, for the most part, popular party rather than the candidate.

John also disapproved of the nominating convention where "deals" were made and block voting prevailed.

Congressman Fish, praising the Youth-In-Government program, said he feels the Legislature and everyone involved in the project deserves a great deal of credit for providing the young people of Ulster County a chance to experience, at first hand, just what our electoral process is.

"And, if John Rider is an example of what our schools are turning out, we certainly have nothing to worry about with the next generation."

Does John want to enter politics? No, he said, "I'd like to work for the government, but I don't see the possibility of running for office."

Onteora Parents

The Onteora Guidance Department will present a program for parents of eighth grade students Thursday 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria, Boiceville. There will be small discussion groups to talk about problems and successful ways of dealing with them. A final joint discussion group will conclude the program. Members of the guidance department, psychological services and administration will be present to discuss the topics.

Crunch Is On SUNY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The admissions "crunch" in the State University system is growing dramatically, according to figures released today by SUNY Chancellor Ernest L. Boyer.

Boyer said the number of candidates for admission to 49 campuses for 1971-72 is running more than 13 per cent ahead of last year.

There are about 123,000 prospective students so far, an increase of 14,600, who have applied through the university's uniform admissions program. The figure at this time in 1970 was 108,500.

Before the admissions period is completed, Boyer added, the number of applicants is expected to reach between 140,000 and 160,000, compared with 135,000 last year.

The applicants are competing for about 60,000 freshman places and 12,000 sophomore, junior and senior transfer openings at the 27 state-operated and 22 locally sponsored community colleges involved in the uniform admissions program. The program provides a processing center for applications.

Last year, soaring applications squeezed a large number of high school graduates out of admission to the freshman class at their first-choice campus within the SUNY system.

Yet, many were accepted at other SUNY institutions under the fast-growing "two-plus-two" program that starts students at two-year colleges and offers them the chance to transfer later to a four-year branch.

Boyer gave no breakdown on this year's applications. In 1970, however, the college at New Paltz reported the highest increase in applications compared with the previous year—30 per cent. A spokesman at New Paltz said last May that there had been 10,000 applications for a goal of 800 freshmen.

Individual units within the SUNY system have a great deal of autonomy in deciding who gets admitted. Some of the campuses authorize "special" admissions for a small part of the incoming class, pegged to youngsters with exceptional interests in some course offerings at that institution.

Moreover, SUNY branches accept hundreds of applicants from disadvantaged areas who do not meet usual entrance requirements.

There now are about 209,000 full-time students in the state university system.

A very prominent businessman went downtown to his office one morning, a couple of hours earlier than usual. He had some things he wanted to do before the employees came to work. No one was there when he arrived except old Tom, the custodian of the building. Old Tom was a faithful employee of many years service to the company. When the boss walked into his office, there was old Tom emptying the ash trays, dusting the furniture and tidying up the place. When the boss noticed him going about his routine, he said, "Tom, you know, as I look around this place, I can't help thinking what an asset you have been to our organization for all these years. You have kept the place clean and cheerful for our employees and our customers to enjoy." "Tom," he said, "You are an important member of this organization and I want you to know that I appreciate you and all you have done." Old Tom said, "Thank you, boss," and walked out of the room with his dust cloth in his hand.

A few minutes passed and the boss had settled down to work at his desk — and then the door to his office opened and in came Tom. His eyes were moist — there was a tear on his cheek. The boss could not understand. He said, "What is wrong, Tom, did I say something to offend you?" Tom said, "No boss, you didn't offend me, but I have something I want to tell you." "Boss," he said, "You know that I have worked right here in this place for seventeen years — twelve of those years I have worked for you — and this morning is the first time anyone ever told me that they appreciated anything I do." He said, "Boss, I just want you to know that I appreciate what you said to me this morning more than I have ever appreciated my paycheck that you signed for me. I just wanted to tell you." He then turned and walked out of the room.

It was Professor William James of Harvard who said, "The deepest principle in Human Nature is the craving to be appreciated." He didn't say — the want or the desire — he said the craving. Man will not give us his best for money alone, but he will give us everything possible if we will give him a bit of sincere appreciation.

When we understand this simple principle, when we resolve not to criticize or condemn, but instead, look for every opportunity to drop a word of honest appreciation here and there, we will find that life will take on a new glow. We will find that more and more fine people will be attracted to us. This is a universal principle. We can use it at home, at the club, at the office, or any place else where we associate with other people. When we have made it a habit to give honest praise and appreciation, we shall have taken another giant step forward toward the self-preparation that will enhance our success and happiness. The development of a keen awareness of the thoughts, the feeling, and the reactions of other people is another way that I can "Prepare Myself," and assure that some day my time for a more rewarding life will come.

Carnegie Preview Monday

It was announced Tuesday by Stan Brown, area manager for the Dale Carnegie Course now being offered in Kingston, that the class will begin with a special preview meeting Monday, March 29, at the Kingston Holiday Inn starting promptly at 7:01 p.m. The public is invited.

"The purpose of the meeting is to give the people of this community an opportunity to see for themselves just how the Dale Carnegie Course, through its unique teaching methods, is able to accomplish so much in a short period of time," Brown said.

He said that those who attend the preview meeting will be taught a basic memory lesson that will probably amaze them at the memory power they actually possess. Brown said that everyone attending "will have a very informative and enjoyable evening with no cost or obligation whatsoever."

As a public service to the community, the Dale Carnegie Course is being offered under the sponsorship of The Daily Freeman.

Further information about the preview meeting or the course may be obtained by writing or calling The Daily Freeman, phone 331-5000.

Ulster County 'Miss Hope' To Compete in State Contest

The newly crowned Miss Hope 1971—Ulster County, Carol Melnik, representing Ulster County Society will compete in the state division contest Friday with final judging to be held at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, Buffalo.

Miss Melnik is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Melnik of Kingston.

Karen Dawn VanAken, New Paltz, and Elaine Kane, Saugerties, nurses at the Kingston Hospital, are the two runners-up.

Miss Melnik is a 1969 graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing in Yonkers. At present she is employed at the Kingston Hospital.

Candidates are judged on personality, intelligence, beauty, and a presentation of a short talk on some phase of the cancer problem.

The winning Miss Hope will travel throughout the state bringing her message of "Hope" to both young and old. Also, she informs the public about the "Safeguards Against Cancer" and "Cancer's Warning Signals."

The 1971 Cancer Crusade to raise a county goal of $62,000 starts on April 1.

Two previous winners in the Ulster County competition were: Gwenn Miller of Woodstock, and Nancy Davis of Saugerties; both of whom were, then, students of the Kingston Hospital School of Nursing.

instruction, Kingston City Schools, Consolidated as guest speaker at its monthly meeting Thursday, March 25, at 8 p.m.

The club holds its meetings at the Bonanza Branch, Kingston Savings Bank, Route 9W, Lake Katrine.

Dr. Adair, a former Operations Sergeant, U.S. Army during the Korean War, was a teacher of physics and earth science for nine years in the Elmira area. He was assistant to the superintendent in the Corning-Painted Post Area School District, and assistant professor of Education and director of the Teaching Intern Program at Colgate University. He holds a Bachelor of Science Degree from Ohio University; Master of Arts, Western Michigan University; and Doctor of Education from Cornell University. He completed additional course work at SUNY, Albany.

University of Cincinnati; Bucknell University; and RPI, Rensselaer.

Dr. Adair will speak on the Restrictions placed upon local school operation by Federal and State Agencies. In his responsibility for the curriculum of the Kingston School District, Dr. Adair is aware of the many demands and limitations placed upon the local schools by various government groups. What these restrictions are and what the effect is locally are the basis of his presentation.

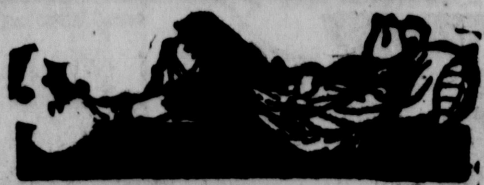

Members are reminded that the second reading of an amendment to the By-Laws will occur at this meeting. The proposed amendment deals with the lowering of membership age to 18 years. All members are urged to attend to cast their vote on this most important issue.

Refreshments will be served.

WILL GET WORSE — Bruce Turner, wildlife management officer for the Ontario, Canada, department of lands and forests, examines the carcasses of some 34 deer killed by dogs in Eastern Ontario so far this month. "It wouldn't be so bad if they were wolves," he says, "but the dogs are killing for sport, for pleasure." As the dead deer pile up in the department's parking lot at Kemptville, 35 miles south of Ottawa, Turner says the next couple of weeks will be worse. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Rent Control Question... Both Sides Speak Out

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Legislators, faced with a mound of housing bills, have heard from both sides on the question of whether to widen or eliminate rent controls in New York City.

About 1,000 residents in city Mitchell - Lama, or middle-income, housing projects came to the Capitol Tuesday to lobby for increased state aid that would lower or establish a control over increases in their rents.

Officials of the Community Housing Improvement Program, Inc., (CHIP), an organization representing landlords of 250,000 rent - controlled dwellings in the city, called for an immediate state takeover of the city's rent-control program to be followed by a gradual phasing out of rent control in the city.

The Mitchell - Lama residents were supporting a package of 20 bills proposed by a group of some 40 legislators calling itself the Legislative Coalition for Moderate Income Housing. The legislation basically seeks more than $100 million in state assistance to lower rents in the form of rent subsidies and funds to reduce interest costs.

The coalition, headed by Sens. Manfred Ohrenstein, D-Manhattan, and John D. Calandra, R-Bronx, contends that Mitchell - Lama housing, intended for persons with an annual income up to $15,000, is becoming so expensive that middle - income tenants are being forced to move out.

Ohrenstein said at a news conference Tuesday that rents in Mitchell - Lama projects had increased by more than 300 percent in the 1960s. "This trend portends the complete bankruptcy of our publicly - aided middle income housing program," he said.

The projects are financed by borrowing under the Mitchell - Lama law from state and city bond issues, which generally are a lower interest charge than ordinary construction loans.

More than 200,000 persons live in Mitchell - Lama housing in the city.

CHIP officials, in supporting bills to eliminate rent control in the city sponsored by Assemblyman James T. McFarland of Erie County and Sen. Thomas F. McGowan of Buffalo, both Republicans, indicated rent control was the cause of abandonment of many buildings by landlords.

"It is cheaper to save the housing we have than to build Mitchell - Lama, public housing, or interest subsidized or tax - abated middle-income housing," a CHIP report said.

William A. Moses, CHIP board chairman, called for an end to rent control and urged the legislature to provide a mortgage moratorium to save currently sound apartment buildings.

Denounced by Some Lawmakers

Crime-Control Package Controversial

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The legislature was presented today with a controversial package of crime-control measures that already has evoked the denunciation by some lawmakers as too authoritarian and possibly dangerous.

"It's the kind of stuff Hitler used when he rose to power in the thirties," Sen. Nicholas Ferraro, D-Queens, a former assistant district attorney, told a reporter.

"I may become very emotional about them if they reach the floor of the Senate," he declared.

The package was announced Tuesday by the Joint Legislative Committee on Crime headed by Sen. John H. Hughes.

Among other proposals in the package was a bill to allow preventive detention of persons with a record of serious crimes. Under this bill, such a person could be held in jail without bail for two months after he is arrested.

Another measure would make it a felony, punishable by up to four years in prison, for witnesses to refuse to testify before courts or legislative committees after having been granted immunity from prosecution.

In another measure, district attorneys would be required to obtain the approval of a new Department of Criminal Justice before dismissing a criminal indictment or allowing a defendant to plead guilty to a reduced charge.

Ferraro favored some approaches in the package, particularly a measure allowing judges to release poor persons without bail if a responsible group vouched for his future court appearance or if he has a job or was attending school.

The submission of the package was a diversion from the main activity of lawmakers during the day figuring out ways to economize on Gov. Rockefeller's proposed $8.45 - billion budget in time for the new fiscal year beginning a week from Thursday.

A trimmed version of Gov. Rockefeller's budget plan was tentatively scheduled for presentation to Republican rank-and-file members in the GOP-controlled legislature late in the week.

In other developments during the day: Several hundred citizens roamed Capitol corridors to press demands for more state aid next year. There were Roman Catholic school pupils seeking passage of a bill to provide tuition aid to their parents, tenants of Mitchell - Lama middle-income housing projects in New York City wanting legislation designed to lower their rents, and college students protesting proposals to impose tuition at the City University of New York.

Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges ordered a legislative study of the costs of retirement benefits for public employees with the purpose of determining whether they should continue to be negotiated by public bargaining.

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea promised to act next week on the ratification of the U.S. Constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18. Rockefeller had his own penal law proposal Tuesday, concerning the reduction of penalties for the sale and possession of marijuana. Among other things, he asked that the penalty for the illegal possession of less than a quarter ounce of the drug, now a maximum of a year in jail, be lowered to a maximum of 15 days in jail for authorizing silent prayer, provides that school children may meditate on a religious theme or reflect on "the anticipated terms of a 'rehabilitation procedure'."

Smith maintained, "can the bill be construed as propagation of an establishment of religion."

"Only but tortured reasoning," Smith maintained, "can the bill be construed as propagation of an establishment of religion."

The legislation, in addition to authorizing silent prayer, provides that school children may meditate on a religious theme or reflect on "the anticipated terms of a 'rehabilitation procedure'."

Public School Prayer In Governor's Hands

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — It now is up to Gov. Rockefeller to decide whether children should be allowed to pray silently in public schools in New York State.

The Senate gave final legislative approval Tuesday to a bill that would authorize silent prayer or meditation at the start of each school day.

The Assembly passed the measure last month, 114-27. The Senate vote was 39-14, clearing the bill for transmission to the governor.

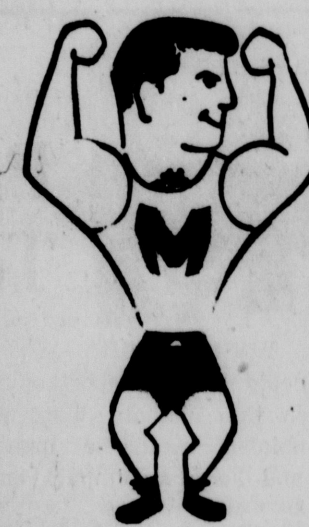

The legislation is sponsored by Assemblyman Charles A. Jerabek, a Republican - Conservative from Bay Shore, Long Island.

Jerabek has taken the position that the U.S. Supreme Court decision on prayer in public schools has been too narrowly interpreted by local boards of education.

He says the purpose of the bill is to clarify for school boards "that they may in fact initiate a moment of silence if they wish without violation of any findings of any court."

Opponents have maintained, however, that the measure amounts to an attempt to circumvent the Supreme Court ruling.

During the 45 minutes of floor debate in the Senate, Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzki cited as the key part of the court opinion a section that said "public

Welfare Decision Is Close

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee is nearing a decision on legislation that would relieve states of much of their welfare costs and institute a modified version of President Nixon's family assistance plan.

The crucial question of how much support to be provided needy families remains unsettled after weeks of closed door meetings.

It appeared likely, however, the yearly floor of federal support would be set at not less than $2,200 for a family of four, with a provision for additional matching funds to states providing more than the minimum.

This would represent a compromise solution to the problem of regional cost-of-living differences.

The original Nixon proposal last year was for a $1,600 yearly cash support for a family, supplemented by food stamps valued at about $860. The plan now shaping up substitutes cash for the food stamps.

Even at what is considered the minimum $2,200 level, committee sources said, the new plan would represent at least some saving in welfare costs for states participating in the federal matching fund program.

The committee was reported nearer agreement on a complete federal takeover of the welfare programs that now pay benefits to about 2 million aged persons, 81,000 blind and 918,000 disabled adults.

A consensus was said to be building around a flat payment of $150 a month for a single person and $200 for a couple in each category, to be paid entirely by the federal government. States could provide more but would receive no matching funds.

The present systems for adult beneficiaries are joint federal-state undertakings under a complicated formula that averages roughly to a 50-50 split.

Red Cross Seeks 'Disaster' Funds

KINGSTON
Tornadoes, blizzards, and flood conditions across the country are causing the Ulster County Red Cross Chapter to make an appeal to the public for disaster funds, according to Frank H. Reis, chairman.

Reis pointed out that the American Red Cross disaster budget of $10 million was already depleted, and the organization has expended or committed an additional $7 million for disaster relief.

Contributions to the emergency disaster appeal may be sent to the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, 21 O'Neil Street, Kingston, and designated "Disaster Relief."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 24, 1971

Non-Taxpaying Wealthy

Back in 1967, then Secretary of the Treasury Joseph W. Barr revealed a total of 155 citizens earning $200,000 and over, who legally paid no taxes. He predicted that unless something were done about it there would be a taxpayer's revolt. Four years later the number of such wealthy non-taxpayers has doubled to 301 and still there is no revolt, only criticisms in Congress and the press.

The current Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, though only a month in the post, analyzed the returns of these 301 non-taxpaying people and said they were not the beneficiaries of "loopholes" but they benefited from "conscious tax policy" established by the government.

As an example, Connally cited income from tax-exempt municipal and state bonds. It is not desirable to let one rich person get by without paying taxes, Connally said, but it is desirable that you have tax-free municipal bonds.

"The person who invests his money in tax-free municipal bonds obviously takes a lower rate of interest than can be obtained from stocks or corporate bonds," Connally pointed out. "So it tends to offset, but it's not a loophole. It's a decision that has consciously been made by this government."

Something has been done about these very rich who are non-taxpayers. As Connally submitted the new number involved, he said they will be subject to a "minimum tax" this spring. Rep. Henry B. Reuss, Wisconsin Democrat, protested that hundreds may get off scot-free again because of remaining loopholes. But if the minimum tax on the wealthy operates, that should not be.

2-Year Draft Extension

The House Armed Services Committee's 32 to 4 vote to extend the draft for two years insures extension of the selective service system to June 30, 1973. Action by the House and the Senate in these matters usually follows this committee's lead.

First, the committee rejected, 28 to 7, a proposal to end the draft and rely on an all-volunteer armed force. It noted that while the Nixon Administration has endorsed the concept of a volunteer army, it wants the draft continued and would reduce draft calls toward zero as manpower needs permit.

The committee's acquiescence in President Nixon's request to end college student deferments came by a vote of 34 to 1. This means that after June 30, this route which has allowed students to complete their college studies, before being subject to the draft, will be closed. Potential draftees will get representation on draft boards after the committee voted to reduce the minimum age of local draft board members from 30 to 18.

These actions look to continuing the draft at least through the war in Vietnam. The committee did not put any obstacles in the way of attaining a zero draft, but neither did it want any obstacle to drafting needed replacements so long as they may be necessary in a war that is being gradually and systematically wound down, but not yet ended. The date of the extension should coincide with the ending of the war on the present withdrawal rate, which is no coincidence.

What to Know About Drugs

A slow but gradual trend is shaping against the misuse of drugs. Convicts who are being allowed to leave their grim prison walls long enough to tell their life stories to youngsters are effectively leading the attack.

Inmates who kicked the habit while in jail not only are telling the kids the agonies following the use of heroin, cocaine and amphetamines, they are also espousing a transition house for recently released prisoners, to help ex-addicts to "make it" in the straight world after they leave jail.

Furthermore, the ex-addicts are willing to track down young pushers. Once they are located, the pushers will be warned: "Get out or we'll turn you in."

The lecture project is going on in Western Pennsylvania. Permission for it was granted by the state Commissioner of Correctional Institutions. The convicts appear before high school groups and other concerned organizations, accompanied by security officers, because "they want the kids to know they're still in prison." This seems to stir the kids to the realities of the perils of drug addiction.

It is all too easy to start smoking "pot" and then to move on the "harder," mind-splitting drugs. But it's not so easy to stop. It's hell, say the convicts, who advise not starting, or getting help—fast!

Baltimore and Washington liquor dealers are installing bullet-proof glass walls behind which their stock is displayed. Customers place their money on a revolving drum, like they would in bank deposit windows, and get back their packages and change. The contraption stops burglars. Iron bars and alarms protect from after-hour robberies.

David Lawrence Says President's Plea to Hanoi To Release U.S. Prisoners

WASHINGTON — This could be an important week in the Vietnam War. World opinion could be mobilized and have an impact on the governments of the Soviet Union and Red China, which exert a big influence on the policies of the North Vietnamese government.

For President Nixon has just issued an appeal for the release of nearly 1,600 American servicemen and civilians captured during the last seven years in Vietnam. He hopes those missing will be identified if in captivity. He says:

"The Geneva Prisoner of War Convention of 1949 sets forth the minimum standards for humanitarian treatment applying to all prisoners of war. Some 125 nations, including all of those involved on both sides in the Southeast Asia hostilities, have acceded to the Geneva Convention and have pledged to observe its humane standard. And on a moral plane above and apart from these formal rules, all civilized peoples are subject to the basic humanitarian standards long established in international law and custom."

The foregoing words are contained in a proclamation by the President requested by a joint resolution of Congress. It declares March 21 through March 27 to be a "National Week of Concern for Americans who are prisoners of war or missing in action." He urges the people of the United States to observe the week "in heartfelt prayer, and in ceremonies and activities appropriate to voice deep concern for the prisoners and missing men, to inspire their loved ones with new courage and hope, and to hasten the day when their ordeal may end."

The President's plea is addressed really to peoples everywhere, for there seldom has been such an instance of what he terms a "barbaric attitude." Mr. Nixon points out, for example, that the North Vietnamese do not identify all the prisoners, do not allow them to correspond regularly with their families, and refuse to release the seriously sick and wounded. Certainly it is proper for the President to tell this to the world and to emphasize the continuing disregard by North Vietnam of the Geneva Convention. Even neutral agencies like the International Red Cross have not been able to alter the adamant stand of the Hanoi government.

More than 70 members of the House of Representatives have just sent a letter to the President of North Vietnam asking that "a representative group from the United States Congress" be permitted to inspect centers of detention and meet with American prisoners of war. Republicans and Democrats joined in the move. The letter says:

"By allowing this you could allay the concern and questions of millions of people in the United States and throughout the world."

Various efforts have been made through foreign diplomats friendly with the North Vietnamese government to establish some kind of contact with the prisoners, but to no avail. An explanation heard is that the Hanoi authorities think this is one way to force the United States to accede to their demand for complete withdrawal at once.

What is so mystifying about the situation is that the Soviet Union, which has been providing billions of dollars to North Vietnam for military supplies, has not seen the wisdom of intervening in a matter of such international importance. The argument usually made in defense of the Soviet reluctance is that Moscow doesn't want to see Red China strengthen its hand in Indo-China. The rivalry is well known and could, of course, have a part in the hesitation of Moscow to apply pressure.

World opinion will continue to be dismayed by the indifference of both Peking and Moscow to the inhumanity of their ally — North Vietnam. Little do the Communist leaders realize that an action which would demonstrate humane concern would help toward making peace between the United States and North Vietnam.

THE BEST HUSBAND ANY WOMAN EVER HAD

The bar at the Excelsior is the place to be at 7 p.m. It is more like a living room than a bar, a room with an iridescent chandelier, some deep couches and settees, and three discreet waiters who whisper. It is up front, facing Via Veneto, but the drapes are drawn to insulate the tourists from Rome.

It is the moment of the dry martini, scotch swirling lazily between ice cubes, a stem glass of Spanish sherry staring at the lights with a pale eye. "At home it's midnight," Henry said. His wife was watching a long white brocade gown move by. "They say," she said, "that Lollobrigida and Sophia Loren came here. It must be a place for Italians."

"Midnight," Henry said, glancing at the bright gold wristwatch, "and the children are sound asleep." He was a man truly handsome, fortyish, with jet black hair in deep waves, a feather of white at his temples, and the strong features of a face which has been carefully etched. "You mustn't think of the children when we're away," she said. "This is a vacation."

He sipped a double Canadian slowly, in the manner of one who does not want to anesthetize his lips. "Cora," he said, "it's a vacation, but we are still family people. It isn't often we get away, but a man's wife and his babies sneak into his mind even when he's at work."

She reached over and squeezed his hand. "Don't mind me," she said. "You're the best husband any woman ever had. No, I mean it. When I think of my family, I just wish that I deserved them." Cora still had the firm neck of youth, the faintest blue on the lids over pale eyes, and the alabaster face and long blonde hair of a modern madonna.

Cora kept her searchlight eyes on the groups in the room, some sitting, some standing. This was the pre-dinner hour: ladies with laughing mouths and bright teeth, décolletage and emerald earrings. The men wore dinner jackets and black bow ties. There was nothing back home like this: Cora was in a movie.

She had the best man in the room. Cora knew that. He was handsome and mature, a successful lawyer who had recently been asked by someone in Washington to become a federal district attorney. Henry had amassed a lot of money; he was inclined to decline the offer with gratitude.

She looked around once more. She wished she were as pretty as that tall stately brunette, or that tiny bronze redhead with the sexy figure. Then she noticed an elderly man smiling and nodding to her husband. Henry was looking away. "There's a man saying hello to you," Cora said. "Right under the arch."

"I know," Henry said. "I've been trying to look the other way."

The stranger started toward them. Henry glanced at him, lifted his brows in smiling surprise and got up. "Excuse me," he said, draining his drink. "Excuse me, darling." He walked over to the elderly man and past him into the huge drawing room.

"I am the doctor who took care of your little girl friend—" "Yes, yes," Henry said impatiently. "—the little dark one who was in trouble last year."

"I told you I remember," Henry said between his teeth. "Now what do you want? Do you live here? I must return to my wife quickly." The doctor looked back into the Excelsior bar and saw the wife staring at him. "She's pretty —" "Keep her out of this," Henry snarled. "Get to the point."

"They caught me and deported me," the doctor whispered. "I am not Italian by birth. I must move from place to place. Now I would like, please, to get back to the United States. I have a little money if you—"

"If you were deported, doctor, they caught you dead to rights. There is nothing I can do. Money means nothing." "But I did a favor for you and your little girl friend." "Sorry, doctor," Henry walked back into the room, and sat beside Cora. "Waiter," he said softly, "a double Canadian on the rocks."

His wife was staring at the magnetizing sparkle of the chandelier. "You think I'm kidding," she murmured, half to herself, "when I say I wish I was — well, great enough to deserve you."

"Please," Cora, he said curiously. She returned from her reverie to look at her husband. "What did I say? Who is that man?"

"Oh, him," Henry said, turning on the disarming smile. "He was party to an old case I tried." "He looks like a person who has been hurt," she said, "or maybe betrayed." Henry said: "Hmmm." "Who was the culprit?" Cora said. "or don't you want to talk about it?"...

Jack Anderson Says Plans to Bomb, Mine Haiphong Still Constantly Updated

WASHINGTON — Contingency plans for a devastating air attack upon North Vietnam, including the bombing and mining of Haiphong harbor, are being kept up to date for possible use. This would be a dangerous escalation of the war, endangering Soviet shipping in the busy harbor.

The top-secret plans, drawn up last October by General Creighton Abrams, the American commander in Vietnam, were transmitted to the Pentagon on October 17. They offer options for a three-day, seven-day or ten-day aerial assault upon North Vietnam.

What worries some strategists, who have studied the plans, is the idea of hitting Haiphong harbor. Any damage to Soviet shipping, they fear, would compel the Kremlin to retaliate.

For years, the military chiefs have been urging strikes against the Haiphong port complex, where most of the enemy's war goods arrive. They would also like to sow the harbor with mines to keep ships from delivering military cargo.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., who attended National Security Council meetings as Vice President, told us that ex-President Johnson had strongly resisted Pentagon pressure to bomb Haiphong.

Humphrey quoted LBJ as telling the Joint Chiefs: "Some kid from Texas, flying a plane made in Texas, would drop a bomb right down the smokestack of a Soviet ship." President Nixon has been equally cautious, say insiders, about attacking Haiphong. This has been pushed most vigorously by Admiral John McCain, the salty Pacific Commander, who tried to sell the President on the idea in Honolulu last April and again at San Clemente, Calif., in May.

Afterwards, McCain sent a secret message to General Earle Wheeler, then the Joint Chiefs chairman, complaining that Nixon hadn't been "responsive." The message, intended for Wheeler's eyes only, referred to the President grumpily as "the old man." This is a term the military chiefs may use in conversation but never in writing to designate the president. McCain added, however, that the White House foreign affairs adviser Henry Kissinger had been more reasonable.

But now the contingency plans for bombing and mining Haiphong harbor are kept constantly updated. They were submitted last October by General Abrams to McCain who forwarded them to the Pentagon. The decision whether to use them is still up to President Nixon.

Bombs Away

An "urgent" memorandum, intended for Navy eyes only, reveals that ships under construction by the Navy in at least three commercial shipyards have been the objects of bomb threats. In one case, and "explosive device" was found aboard a submarine rescue ship at the Alameda Drydock and Shipbuilding yard in Mobile.

More than two dozen bomb threats have been made, most of them also directed against the Alabama yard. The explosive device, consisting of two propane gas bottles lashed together with a strip heater, didn't go off.

The bomb threats have left the Navy in a quandary about jurisdiction over Navy ships in drydock. The memo, issued to Navy man at shipyards across the country following a flurry of consultations, suggests that the Navy's own investigators should be "the point of contact for all matters involving offenses against Navy property."

But the memo acknowledges that Navy investigators have jurisdiction only over offenses committed by naval personnel on Navy property. The FBI's jurisdiction is also limited. "The FBI can investigate thefts and destruction of government property," states the memo, but "Threats of attempts to destroy property are not covered by this statute. An overt act is required."

Concludes the two-page memo: "Normally local law enforcement officers will investigate bomb threats and will conduct or assist private shipyards in searches for bomb devices."

Washington Whirl

Free Lighters — The federal government not only discourages cigarette smoking and subsidizes tobacco growing at the same time but is now handing out free cigarette lighters purchased at the taxpayers' expense. One thousand of the lighters, emblazoned with the slogan "Doctors Agree: Moonshine Kills," are being distributed in moonshine country to help combat illegal stills. The lighters, as added emphasis, also feature a prostrate man with a daisy sprouting from his chest. Presumably, he expired from bad booze, not cigarette-caused lung cancer. The lighters, which cost the taxpayers $1,300, are passed out by federal revenue agents.

Franchise Fraud — The Child Welfare League is issuing a new brochure warning against another franchise fraud, the day care center. Although some day care franchisers are on the up and up, others demand $10,000 deposits and levy other costs so heavy that the centers never get underway. One such firm, turned up by the League's project director, Bill Pierce, demands a $10,000 down payment even though it has never successfully operated the kind of day care center it sells.

Raided Investigation — When we asked Florida officials what happened at Raiford state prison where demonstrations by prisoners led to vicious beatings, we were assured that a fair probe was being carried out by the state attorney's office. The probe comes directly under the number-two man in the office, Mack Futch. His credentials to run a fair probe are disclosed in a recent letter written by Futch. "If there is any deficiency in our penal system," he wrote, "it is that too few criminals are locked up and that when they are imprisoned, they are treated with far too much consideration for the confinement to be a punishment."

Reasons Why Red China Skirts Vietnam War Roll

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA) — China and North Vietnam are as close as "lips and teeth," said Peking Premier Chou En-lai after his visit to Hanoi.

He pledged "all-out support" to the people of Indochina — if the United States continues "expanding its war."

China will not hesitate to make the "highest sacrifices," Chou warned. Nevertheless, he appeared to rule out any commitment of Chinese troops to the fighting in Indochina.

As the history of the last six years shows, Peking's rulers do not take their verbal assaults very seriously.

Specialists on communism see four major reasons why China is not likely to intervene more actively in Indochina.

They are: An unwritten American-Chinese "agreement" to preserve the integrity of North Vietnam.

The accelerated withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Vietnam.

Peking's fear of a Russian attack.

Mao Tse-tung's efforts to break out from his diplomatic isolation and to gain admission to the United Nations.

There is little doubt that the Chinese Marxists-Leninists would like to continue the "revolutionary war" in Indochina to the last Vietnamese, Laotian and Cambodian.

But their basic commitment has always been to preserve the integrity of North Vietnam.

According to East European diplomats, Peking made this repeatedly clear at talks in Warsaw, Poland, by American and Chinese ambassadors.

Peking's intervention in the war would become a possibility only if U.S. troops invaded North Vietnam and drove toward China's southern border. As the diplomats see it, this is, in effect, an unwritten American-Chinese understanding. It explains President Nixon's public and private assertions that there is no plan to invade Hanoi and that China has no reason to be concerned that the war might expand near its borders. Because of the withdrawal of American troops from South Vietnam, Peking, it is increasingly clear, no longer regards the U.S. presence in Indochina as a threat to China's security, as it did during the period of the buildup in 1965.

But Russia is an immediate and ever-present threat to China.

While the United States is withdrawing from South Vietnam, the Russians are stepping up their military preparations on their border with China and in the Indian Ocean.

Peking is aware, of course, that the Russians, by expanding their navy in the Indian Ocean, also aim to out flank and contain the Chinese.

Thus, some 100,000 of China's crack troops are reported to be mobilized on the Russian border. They have been there since the Chinese-Russian border incidents of 1969.

Because they fear Soviet aggression, the Chinese are also demonstrating increasing interest in broadening their international contacts in virtually every part of the world. Their diplomacy shows greater flexibility.

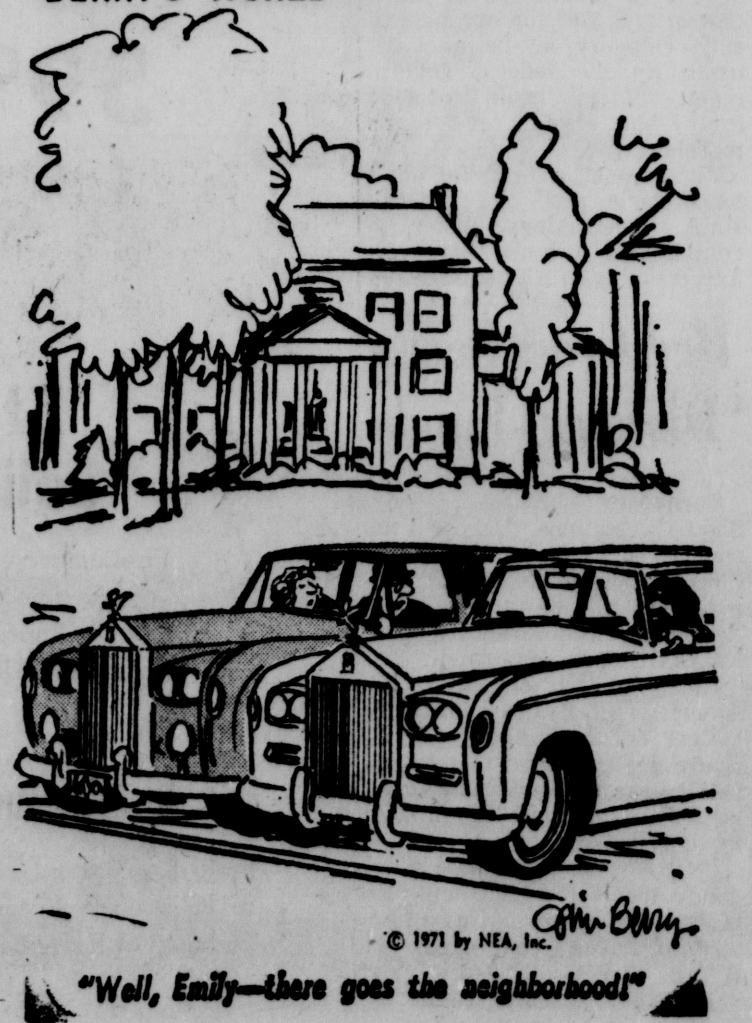

Mao no longer insists on the recognition of Red China's sovereignty over the Chinese Republic of Taiwan.

This demand has been lifted whenever Peking considered it advantageous to establish diplomatic relations with countries that showed themselves reluctant to recognize the Communists claim to Taiwan.

As Nixon indicated, this will make it possible for the United States to establish relations with the Red Chinese and back their admission to the United Nations.

Ironically, it is the Russian Communists who are now lukewarm about having the Chinese Communists as their neighbors in the U.N.'s Security Council.

Sinatra Quits Greasepaint For Writing and Teaching

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Frank Sinatra, an often stormy and controversial performer during his more than 30-year career, announced Tuesday he is retiring from show business to write and teach. Sinatra, 55, said he hoped to spend more time with his family, his close friends and perhaps "writing a little bit," singer-actor said, was final. He also excluded further participation in politics. Sinatra would not comment further on his "retirement" but a spokesman for the singer said his decision to quit show business was sincere. "He has suggested and threatened retirement in recent years and he is sincere," said his press agent. "He hopes to teach and write and is in the process of putting a book together, sort of bordering on an autobiography."

The spokesman said he probably would not fulfill a commitment for a motion picture for Warner Bros. But that he would perform in his last scheduled public appearance, the Motion Picture Relief Fund Benefit at the Los Angeles Music Center June 13. According to a copyright story in the New York Daily News by society columnist Suzy, Sinatra said his career has been "a fruitful, busy, uptight, loose, sometimes boiterous, occasionally sad, but always exciting three decades." But he said his activities had allowed "little room or opportunity for reflection, reading, self-examination and that need which every thinking man has for a fallow period, a long phase in which to seek a better understanding of the vast transforming changes now taking place everywhere in the world."

Sinatra began his career as a dance band singer, first with Larry James and then with Tommy Dorsey in the late 1930s. The skinny kid from Hoboken, N.J. had hit after hit in 1940 and 1941 with his specialized vocal arrangements, including "I'll Never Smile Again."

He shot to fame with the advent of swooning, screaming bobby-soxers at New York's Paramount Theater just prior to World War II. It was Sinatra fans who set the style for the subsequent teen-age mania for male vocalists.

RR Setup: Storm of Protests

WASHINGTON (AP) — A storm of protests and the threat of a congressional inquiry have greeted the map detailing the nation's new and limited rail passenger service.

"I think the railroads had too much to say about the routes," said Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee. Staggers said his committee would look into the situation, but he didn't set a date.

Criticism began rolling in almost immediately after the National Railroad Passenger Corp. (Railpax) announced its final route selections Monday. The network starting May 1 will provide 184 passenger trains to connect 114 cities with 100,000 or more population.

The plan to halve the nation's rail passenger service was labeled shortsighted and ruinous by top officials of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union who called Tuesday for nationalization of the railroads.

"The proposed network is a cynical betrayal of pledges of improving rail service for the riding public and represents a serious curtailment of railroad jobs," said Matthew Guinan, international president of the 135,000-member union.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield and Sen. Lee Metcalf, Montana Democrats, said two-thirds of their state and six of its largest cities will not have rail passenger service under the Railpax plan.

They introduced a bill requiring railroads to return federal land grants where service is being abandoned. Mansfield said the land grants were provided in the 19th century as incentives to provide railroad service. "If they abandon this intention I see no reason why they should benefit from the land grants."

Patton Objects To Report on Kingston Town

Donald Patton Jr., former supervisor of the Town of Kingston, in a statement this week objected to a report of a Kingston Town Board meeting attributed to Town Justice Richard Alberstadt, in which the appointment of a deputy superintendent of highways was declared illegal. Patton was named to the position by Superintendent of Highways Roderick Stanfield and at a subsequent meeting the Town Board withdrew the appointment and it was termed illegal.

The former Republican supervisor said the position of deputy superintendent is legal and has been provided for in town law. He further said, "Our local Town Board has not had the foresight to establish this much needed position and therefore the appointment is invalid, not illegal. Justice Alberstadt should review his law books and get better legal advice before making rash statements."

Defending the Democratic supervisor, Donald V. Dolan, Patton continued, "This is only the latest in a series of events to discredit our present supervisor and to eliminate any possible opposition to Justice Alberstadt's apparent desire to run for town supervisor. It is also a further harassment of our present superintendent of highways (Roderick Stanfield) in an attempt to force his resignation and make room for a political ally in return for support."

Further explaining the controversy, Patton said at the January Town Board meeting there were a rash of complaints about snow removal. County Legislator Douglas V. Dye suggested and the Town Board agreed that a second man was needed to help handle requests for service.

"When our conscientious superintendent of highways appointed such a man, the board promptly squelched the appointment. This is a non-paying job. If the board was interested in the welfare of the people, they would have established the position so that a valid appointment could have been made," Patton said.

Supervisors, Legislators Slate Meeting

KINGSTON
A meeting of the Ulster County Supervisors and Legislators Association will be held on Tuesday, April 6 at 8 p.m. in the Ulster County Office Building, fifth floor legislative chambers.

Nominations and election of officers for the year will be the order of business.

Secretary Lew Kirschner (D-Dist. 7) of the County Legislature, urges all past supervisors and legislators as well as current office holders to attend. "A full attendance is requested in order to make 1971 an active, interesting and meaningful year for the association," he said.

Injured and taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance was Karen A. Miller of Tubby Street. She sustained a compound fracture of the nose and lacerations of the hands.

Police said the car, driven by Jacqueline P. Loekle, 36, of 64 Maverick Road, Woodstock, was southbound when it went off the west shoulder and hit guard rails.

According to authorities, Trooper R. Mack of Kingston State Police cited the woman driver for driving while intoxicated. She submitted to a breathalyzer test and later was released by Town Justice Sherwood E. Davis pending a future court appearance, troopers said.

Firemen Fight Woodstock Blaze

Thirty-five firefighters in command of Chief Duncan Wilson late Tuesday night fought flames that caused heavy damage to the second floor area of a small two-story frame house off the West Saugerties Road. The fire was believed to have been caused by a blaze in the chimney.

All Woodstock fire units and a tanker from Zena were dispatched to the scene shortly after 11 p.m. Fire officials reported the flames spread through the upper floor before the blaze was checked. Water and smoke damage was reported on the first floor of the structure owned by Jan Williams of Blue Mountain and occupied by James Lowrey.

All the Bids Are Rejected For Glasco Water Sites

SAUGERTIES The increasing cost of labor and materials for construction was evident in the latest bids for the proposed garage, office and meeting room building for Glasco Water District.

Saugerties Town Board rejected all bids Tuesday afternoon at a special meeting and agreed that they would have to investigate some other type of construction to "keep the cost within reason."

The lowest bid of the five submitted and opened yesterday afternoon was $78,225 for the 46 by 52 feet concrete block structure, which was about $12,000 more than the previous low in the bidding last October.

The new structure is proposed for the former Mauro property on Route 9W at Barclay Heights which was planned for use of a garage, Glasco Water District office and polling place for voters in the Barclay Heights area.

Melio Construction Corp., Newburgh was lowest on the base bid. However, there were seven options, three for deductions for the elimination of face bricking, canopies and a lower guarantee on the roof, and four for additions for a folding partition, air conditioning, a ceiling on the garage and acoustical tile ceiling for the office and meeting room.

With the three deductions eliminated the low bidder would be Jas. H. Schoonmaker and Son, Kingston with $69,009. Melio's low bid with deductions was second lowest with $71,492. Schoonmaker's base bid was $82,280; Roy C. Knapp and Son, Inc., Beacon, $86,700 and Bill Decker Inc., Poughkeepsie, before it could be turned off, $83,974.

The architect for the project is Alfred R. Scarperi Associates, Kingston.

Will Review Esopus Plan On Zoning

PORT EWEN The proposed zoning ordinance for the Town of Esopus recently completed by Raymond and May Associates, planning consultants, will be presented for review at an informational meeting 7:30 tonight at Esopus Town Hall, Port Ewen.

Members of the Planning Board and Zoning Commission as well as representatives of the planning consultants will be in attendance to answer questions about the ordinance.

The proposed law is designed to regulate and restrict the location, height, bulk and size of buildings and other structures, the percentage of lot which may be occupied, the size of yards, courts, and other open spaces, the density and distribution of population, the location and uses of buildings and structures and the uses of land for trade, industry, residence and other purposes.

Drop Charges Against Teeners

Charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs, sixth degree lodged against five Kingston teenagers last November by Kingston police were dismissed Tuesday by City Judge Hubert A. Richter with the consent of the district attorney's office.

The youths were booked after a truck in which they were riding was stopped on Pearl Street and police said they found a small quantity of marijuana in the vehicle. The charges were dismissed following further investigation by authorities.

Those exonerated were Christopher Cahill, 19, of 159 Bruyn Avenue; William Franz, 19, of 81 Emerson Street; Steven Lyle, 17, of 86 Johnston Avenue; Michael Farrell, 19, of Kingston, operator of the pickup truck and John Caprotti, 18, of Box 346B, Kingston.

Set Breakfast Sunday Morning

Area Knights of Columbus Councils will hold a father and son communion breakfast Sunday.

Members of Kingston, Saugerties, New Paltz and Phoenicia councils will join for 9 a.m. Mass at St. Mary's Church, Broadway. Breakfast will be at the Kingston Council Home at 10 a.m.

Guest speaker will be Jay P. Rolison, State Senator. Kingston Mayor Francis R. Koenig will be in attendance also.

Tickets may be obtained from Kingston Council Grand Knight John Rice, Saugerties Council Luther Wehr, New Paltz Council Frank Rinaldo and Phoenicia Council Pat McLaughlin.

To Discuss New Landfill

PORT EWEN The proposed landfill at the quarry in New Salem will be under discussion Thursday at the regular meeting of the Town of Esopus Businessmen's Association.

The meeting will be held at the Port Ewen Firehouse starting 8 p.m.

Committee reports will be given by Richard Terpening on Christmas lighting and on peddler permit signs; by Richard Williams on Rondout Creek oil spill and on town board signs; by Fred Holmes on litter barrels; Peter Benkert on picnic and expo and by Fred Holmes on youth committee.

A field trip to the Royal Container plant in Milton is being planned for April 22. Thursday's meeting is deadline for reservations for the tour.

Theatre Group Meets Tonight

STONE RIDGE "Tonight is the night" according to Ronald A. Koster, director of the Center for Continuing Education at Ulster County Community College. Attendance and participation in tonight's meeting to form a Broadway Theatre Party Group will determine the future of this type of activity at the college.

Credit-free programs at the college are self-supporting and the entire cost of theatre tickets and charter bus transportation for participants will be paid by the registrants. A minimum of 40 registrants will be required to provide an economical base for charter buses.

Interested persons are invited to attend the meeting tonight which will be held in room 420 of the Burroughs Building at 7 p.m. Those persons who are unable to attend the meeting are invited to call the center for Continuing Education at the college Thursday to obtain information resulting from the exploratory meeting.

Methodist Men Plan Communion Rites, Breakfast

SAUGERTIES The Methodist Men of Saugerties United Methodist Church, Washington Avenue and Post Street, will sponsor a Men's Communion Breakfast and Service of Holy Communion on Sunday, March 28th, at 7 a.m. at the church.

The Service of Holy Communion will be shared in the sanctuary, followed by breakfast in the new fellowship hall of the Christian Learning Center. All churches in the Saugerties area have been invited to share in the service of Communion and the breakfast to follow. It is hoped that a delegation of at least five laymen and the pastor from each church in the community will share in this ecumenical service and fellowship.

A guest speaker from the Roman Catholic community is being arranged and it is anticipated that a presentation and opportunity for dialog and discussion will be a part of the breakfast time. Churches of the community should contact the United Methodist Church no later than Friday with the number of reservations from their churches. Reservations should be called to the church between 9:30 a.m. and 12 noon.

West Addresses Little Gardens Society Meeting

SAUGERTIES Edward G. West recently addressed a meeting of Saugerties Society of Little Gardens at the Congregational Church. West was with the N.Y. State Conservation Department for 40 years. The last 10 years West served as superintendent of the Bureau of Land Acquisition. The program was a presentation of color slides and music showing many beautiful views in Catskill Park and Adirondack Park areas.

Following the program refreshments were served by hostesses Mrs. Brendan Dooley, Mrs. John Jagodzinski, and Mrs. Gordon Keeley.

At the next meeting the program "Environment and You" will be presented by Mrs. Frank Greco.

VFW Loyalty Day Benefit

SAUGERTIES with music provided by Nick Ferraro and his band. A dance will be held on Saturday at the VFW Hall on Livingston Street, Saugerties. Dancing will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., scheduled for May 1.

It is the 19th year that Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, its Ladies Auxiliary and Dads of Foreign Service Vets Post 143 have sponsored Loyalty Day in Saugerties.

Plans for Loyalty Day include two church services in the morning, an 11-division parade in the afternoon and a dance in the evening. Featured in the parade will be such bands as the Saugerties High School Band, Kingston Indians and the Muchachos, plus other equally fine bands. Parade Marshals

Gilbert Ricks and Max Benson are working on a route which will give as many residents as possible a chance to join in proclaiming the theme, Loyalty Is Everyone's Business.

The VFW reported a successful salvage drive for the Loyalty Day fund and at a future meeting will discuss conducting another drive in the near future. Aluminum tins, paper and other metals will be collected and sold with proceeds going to the fund for Loyalty Day activities.

Kindergarten Registration

SAUGERTIES requested on the registration forms, parents are asked to be extremely particular in recording correct dates, phone numbers and especially the address. Give name and street number, name of highway, and if a new family, write the name of nearest neighbor who has a child attending school.

Parents are requested to obtain registration forms in any of the elementary schools between April 1 and April 7. These forms should be filled out at home and brought into school on one of the assigned registration dates. By preparing forms in advance, parents will avoid delays in the registering procedure and also have time to get health appraisal and immunization completed by the family physician before April 19.

In regard to the information requested on the registration forms, parents are asked to be extremely particular in recording correct dates, phone numbers and especially the address. Give name and street number, name of highway, and if a new family, write the name of nearest neighbor who has a child attending school.

It is also suggested that parents go to the school closest to their home for registering. Actual assignments to a school and class will of necessity be determined at a later date.

To be eligible to attend kindergarten during the coming school year, a child must become five years of age on or before December 1, 1971. As proof of age, parents must bring in birth certificate at time child is registered. Public Health Law now requires immunization against smallpox, rubella, measles, and polio-myelitis. This means that every child on entering school must present one or more certificates indicating that he has been immunized against all four of these diseases.

Exemptions are: A statement from a physician indicating that the immunization is not indicated for reasons of health, or, a written statement from the parent or guardian of the child that the parent or guardian is a bona fide member of a religious organization whose teaching are contrary to the administration of an immunizing agent.

Registration is scheduled in the respective schools from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the dates listed below.

Glasco School, Monday, Tuesday, April 19, 20; Mount Marion School, Tuesday, Wednesday, April 20, 21; Main Street School, Wednesday, Thursday, April 21, 22 and Grant D. Morse School, Thursday, Friday, April 22, 23.

Campus School Crisis Stirs Up New Paltz Parents

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

Opposition to a state budget bill threatening the existence of campus schools is stiffening in New Paltz, and promises to make things hectic for Albany legislators in the next few days.

A meeting on the bill was sponsored by the New Paltz Campus School PTA at the school Tuesday night, and plans were made to send letters, telegrams, and petitions and make personal appearances in Albany in an effort to defeat the bill, which would require campus schools, now funded entirely by the State University, to be supported by local districts according to contract with the state. Many people feel this would effectively end the campus school system.

Campus schools are elementary and junior high schools operated by a state university college. The New Paltz Campus School serves grades nursery through eighth.

Under provisions of the proposed bill, the New Paltz Central School District would have to pay the university in excess of $240,000 per year to keep the Campus School open or take the school's students into its own school system. It would cost the district's taxpayers an increase of $33.88 per $1,000 assessed value, or about an extra $75 per tax bill, to keep the school running.

New Paltz College President John J. Neumaier, addressing the gathering, called the situation a "crisis." He pointed out that education across the state faced drastic cuts.

New Paltz School District Business Manager Frank Hamilton gave a lengthy resume of the maneuverings and procedures he and members of the New Paltz School Board had gone through to try and kill the bill. He reported that Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) and State Senator Jay Rolison (R-Ulster Dutchess) are opposed to the bill, and Bell has said he will have the bill removed from the omnibus budget bill, where it was almost assured of passing, and also that he can keep it from getting to the floor this legislative session.

Hamilton further stated that the bill was founded on "a mistaken premise," the premise that school districts having a campus school are getting a free ride. He has said on other occasions that the New Paltz School District has been paying for the Campus School for years through a lower state aid ratio.

New Paltz College Dean of Education Mario Fantini said he was not as optimistic as Hamilton about the chances of killing the bill. He felt that opposition to the bill had a "matter of hours" to make itself felt. He said the rationale behind the bill was that campus schools, since they were no longer vital in teacher training, were not serving a useful function. He said that this was wrong, as the campus school role was being redefined to place greater emphasis in the areas of innovation and experimentation, and programs developed in campus schools could have impact throughout the state.

Fantini said the campus schools should function as a "problem solving vehicle." A campus school should be "a beacon, projecting quality education." He noted that the closing of the Campus School would be a blow to the school district, but he said "The children would receive the cruelest blow of all."

The meeting was attended by about 150 parents and considerable fervor was aroused. One parent branded the bill "an obvious political move on the part of the Governor." A parent asking the question, "Why does education take second place to the South Mall in Albany?" received a loud round of applause.

The spectres of higher school taxes, overcrowded facilities, split sessions, and the loss of a valued and highly-respected school has stirred up the parents of New Paltz, and the reverberations will be felt in Albany.

PARK SITE — Plans for a city park in the downtown Urban Renewal area were discussed recently by city and recreation department officials. Still in the planning stage, the park would be located near the intersection of Hasbrouck Avenue and Murray Street. The 180 by 280 foot area, an Urban Renewal project, would contain a variety of playground equipment for younger children and teenagers. Officials discussing the plans were (L-R) James G. Connors, Director of Urban Renewal; T. Robert Gallo, Alderman-at-Large; Mayor Francis R. Koenig and Andrew J. Murphy III, superintendent of recreation. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Historical Society Working Out the Details

RHINEBECK carriages, and sleighs" a quilting by members of the day for Rhinebeck. At last count there were about 94 paid members of the three-year-old Society, and it is growing.

Plans are underway by the Rhinebeck Historical Society for what was termed a "big day of activities at the Dutchess County Fairgrounds, where an antique village owned by the Dutchess County Agricultural Society stands, and assembling all of the old horse-drawn vehicles possible for exhibition and a possible caravan. Exhibits might include such almost lost arts as spinning cloth, candlemaking, and

Rhinebeck Plans for Moving Day

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK 16 gave overwhelming approval to upping the expenditure ceiling for the building from $350,000 to $370,000.

It was brought out at the last Board of Trustees meeting that the village owns very little of the furniture in its present offices. Even the Board meeting table is owned by the landlord, and the Village Clerk's desk is her own.

The Rhinebeck Fire Department will occupy the first floor of the two-story brick structure at the corner of East Market and Center Streets. It has been housing its newest engine in an otherwise unoccupied service station across the street, due to inadequate room at the old firehouse.

The heat was turned on last week, and seems to be functioning well, and voters March 16 gave overwhelming approval to upping the expenditure ceiling for the building from $350,000 to $370,000.

the highest bidder, Beekman Arms Hotel, last year for $10,000, and will probably be torn down for expansion of the adjacent hotel property.

As the new village hall will be across Center Street from the Town Hall, there has been talk of splitting the services of a custodian with the town.

Less than half of the eligible voters went to the polls in March, 1969 to approve the $350,000 bond issue, with a resultant $1.40 per thousand tax increase at that time. Property owners approved the measure 230-177 and non-property owners gave their endorsement 59-24.

There were fewer than 100 voters to approve this month's $20,000 addition to the package, which resulted in no tax increase, as the funds were derived from the interest on the bond issue.

The appeal to the public at that time was based largely on the need for a new firehouse. It was reasoned that if the fire truck nearest the door failed to start, no other vehicle could leave the building.

There were also threats of increased fire insurance rates in the village.

The new firehouse will have eight truck bays, four in the front and four in the rear, and will include housing for the antique pumper and police car as well as fire apparatus.

Contracts were awarded in Nov., 1969 to B. C. Potter and Sons, Port Ewen, for general construction; T. J. Nocket of Poughkeepsie for plumbing; the same firm for heating and ventilating, and Tallardy of Poughkeepsie for electricity.

How much will your Checking Account cost you this month?

If you keep more than the bare minimum needed for week-to-week expenses in your checking account, you're losing hard-earned money. Even if it's only a hundred dollars or so, in a Triple D-W Account with US that money will earn money for you at a full 5% compounded daily. And you can withdraw whenever you like without losing a penny of interest.

Get your idle money out of that checking account and put it to work for you — with US.

Post Income Tax Dance Scheduled

A meeting of the Home School Association of Kingston Catholic School took place Tuesday, Mar. 9 in the primary building at which time Louis DeCicco, chairman of the special events committee, announced plans for a "Post Income Tax" dance to be held on Saturday, Apr. 17 in the middle school. Music will be provided by Pete Ferraro's orchestra. Mr. DeCicco also spoke of plans for a Bazaar scheduled tentatively for June.

Sister Eileen Treanor, coordinating principal, announced the participation of the school in the Archdiocesan Science Fair. Children of all grades are urged to enter. The projects will be on display May 13 in St. Joseph's School, Kingston. Judging will take place May 14.

Sister Eileen told of plans being formulated for honoring the 1971 graduating class. The new styles of student uniforms for next year were on display during the meeting.

Sister Celia Dincher, principal of the primary building, announced a Heart Sound Screening Program, sponsored by the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, with the approval of the Ulster County Medical Society, will be held in the school on March 29. All children in grades 2 and 5 will be included in this program, with parents' consent.

Sister Celia also announced the showing of the movie "The Redeemer." It is hoped this film will prepare the children of the school to participate in a more meaningful way in the Easter Week liturgy.

Frank Denke, coordinator of "Life, Handle with Care" for Ulster, Dutchess and Orange Counties, spoke on the current legislation concerning abortion. Mr. Denke discussed his views on the reasoning behind legalized abortion in New York State. He offered suggestions for the enactment of legislation which recognizes the right to life of every human being. Members of the Association in attendance voted to go on record in favor of repealing the present abortion law.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Van Wagenen and her committee.

GOV. NELSON A. ROCKEFELLER stopped to chat with Mrs. Raymond LeFever of Bloomington, at a recent luncheon in Albany honoring Mrs. Wilma Rogalin, retiring chairman of the New York State Republican Committee and president of the New York State Federation of Republican Women's Clubs. Mrs. LeFever is past treasurer of the New York State Federation and is now serving as Ulster County representative for the New York State Citizens Information Service. She is also associated with the Caunitz Realty. (Gibson photo service).

Musical Society of Kingston

The Old Dutch Church of Kingston was the setting for the March 16 meeting of the Musical Society of Kingston. Chairman of the church music program was Mrs. Perry Cobb.

The following program was performed by members of the Musical Society: "O Welt Ich Muss Dich Lassen," Brahms, Cindy Jones, organ; "The Seven Last Words of Christ," DuBois, Natalie Cobb, soprano, accompanied by Jane Tonnesen; "Prelude" from Prelude and Fugue in C minor," Willan, Lila Decker, organ; "Forward to Christ," O'Hara, Geraldine Nathan, contralto, accompanied by Cindy Jones; "Largo" from Sonata in D minor," J. S. Bach, Melissa Sweet, flute, accompanied by Jane Tonnesen; "And Jesus Said: It Is Finished," Antes, Cecelia Keehn, soprano, accompanied by Lila Decker; "Toccata in D minor," Johann Pachelbel, Jane Tonnesen, organ. Hostesses for the social which followed were the Mmes. Elmore Nathan and Charles Dedrick.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I made an unusual bulletin board from a plastic foam wig holder.
To make it more attractive, I cut out felt eyes, nose and mouth! Then just attach your keepsakes with straight pins, wig pins, or thumbtacks.
It's very inexpensive and real cute.
Tammy Smith, Age 12

Letter of Laughter
Dear Heloise:
I hate doing laundry and usually put it off until my "dirty" clothes hamper is so overflowing that it takes an entire day to do all the laundry.

So, to make hanging clothes outdoors more enjoyable, I keep a small transistor radio in the clothespin bag.
Have you ever tried hanging up diapers to a tango???

You'd be surprised at how much faster you get the washing done.
Martha

No! But I think you are a chickeree! I am 51 and when my children wore diapers I washed 'em by hand...ugh...boiling and all!

Dear Heloise:
Everyone thinks I use ground round for my Sloppy Joes, but I don't—just plain old hamburger.
After I brown the onion and plain old hamburger, and add a little tomato sauce, I add a little sugar to keep the brazen taste down, then plunk in a beef bouillon cube which gives my hamburger the taste of more expensive beef and keeps me on my budget.
Now you have a quick and easy banquet on a bun. Just add salad...
Edith

Dear Heloise:
I have discovered a way to make my own three-layer gelatin dessert.
It is a lot cheaper and it makes more servings than the kind you buy.
First you prepare a gelatin dessert following the package directions. Second prepare a dessert topping mix, following directions. Mix the two ingredients together and whip a few minutes.
Now, just pour into dessert glasses and chill for three hours.
Ramona Richardson

Oh la la, is it de-e-licious. Be prepared with seconds, cause the family will just love this dessert.
Heloise

Doing The Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(© 1971, Emily Post Institute, Inc.)
I AM delighted to send Mrs. J. Levine and her son of Pittsburgh a copy of Emily Post's "Etiquette for Young People" instead of Emily Post's "Etiquette." I think they will both enjoy it, and it will answer a lot of those "whys" for him.
DEAR MRS. POST: At dinner the other evening our 11-year-old son asked why he is told to keep his elbows off the table and his left hand in his lap (except, of course, for two-hand cutting, etc.). My first answer was to say, "Elizabeth Post says so." Naturally, our son wanted to know why. When I explained we could write and ask you, his answer was "I hope not; then you'll really know all the manners I'm missing!"
—Beverly Levine

Dear Mrs. Levine: The reason for the "don't slouch all over the table" rule is simply that it doesn't look attractive. Eating is not a terribly pretty act, and the rules are designed to make it as inoffensive and pleasurable as possible. It isn't necessary to keep the left hand rigidly in one's lap; that's simply a reminder to keep it from encircling your plate or playing with the implements.

It is permissible, while you are waiting for food to be served, to rest just your elbows on the table (not your entire arms) and clasp your hands, if you are comfortable that way. While eating, however, only the hand, or hands, you are using should be over the table's edge. Show your son how it looks when a person sprawls all over his place while he eats. He shouldn't need more than a visual lesson!

DEAR MRS. POST: Is it proper to give an unwed mother a baby shower?—June

Dear June: If the girl is planning to keep the baby, her closest friends might give her a small "unofficial" shower. She may be going through a difficult time and their friendship and support will be greatly appreciated.

"So You're Planning to Give a Shower!" This booklet tells you everything you need to know for a bridal shower, a welcome party for a new neighbor, the local minister or anyone else. To get a copy, send 35 cents in coins, to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper.

Secretarial Seminar Slated

Approximately 30 business students from the secretarial and clerical classes at Kingston High School will participate in a seminar at the Kingston plant of International Business Machines entitled "Today's Secretary." This seminar has been organized to give those students interested in being selected for the 1971-72 IBM Work Experience Program a preview of some of IBM's latest secretarial equipment including the Magnetic Tape Selectric Typewriter. This equipment will be demonstrated by Mrs. Sandra McCulloch of the Business Education Department. The second part of the seminar will be devoted to a preorientation and discussion period on the procedures and values of the co-op program. This will be conducted by Mrs. Ruth Brown, manager of the Business Education Department. Arrangements for the day are under the supervision of Loryne Connick, chairman of the Business Education Department at the high school, and Elizabeth Milano, secretarial teacher and coordinator of the IBM Work Experience Program.

New Members for Auxiliary Here

Two new members of Ladies Auxiliary of Ulster Hose Company No. 5 were presented with membership pins by Auxiliary president, Mrs. Albert Klimchusky, at a recent meeting. They are Miss Peggy Thomas and Mrs. Joseph Misasi. Mrs. William Nyulassy reported the annual banquet will take place May 6 at Tommy's Restaurant, High Street, at 6:30 p.m. Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Nyulassy, Nicholas Street, or Mrs. Joseph Senor, Flatbush Avenue. Mrs. Stanley VanKleeck, parade marshal, announced there are three parades in which the Auxiliary will participate this year: Beacon, June 19; Rosendale, July 24; and Ellenville, September 25. The Auxiliary will serve refreshments to the Senior Citizens of the Town of Ulster at their regular monthly meeting in April. Mrs. Jay Henion and Mrs. James Sisco were appointed chairmen. Mrs. Van Kleeck was named refreshment chairman at the Ulster County Fire Chiefs' meeting to be held April 8 at Ulster Hose Co. No. 5 firehouse, Albany Avenue Extension. Mrs. Klimchusky reported for Mrs. Floyd Gilbert on the successful food sale held in February. Thank you notes were received from firemen in the Hudson Firemen's Home for the Auxiliary's remembrances. The next meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association will be held Tuesday, Mar. 30 at Wallkill. Hostess for the evening was Mrs. LeRoy Thomas Jr.

KHS Students Win Sorosis Art Awards

Colleen Woodward, honorable mention; Pam Kitchener, third place. Gary Barten took second prize. Miss Woodward's artwork was done on newsprint while Miss Kitchener's is in charcoal. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Sorosis of Kingston, a member of the General Federation of Women's Clubs Inc., sponsored an art contest on Friday, March 19 at the Bonanza Branch of the Kingston Savings Bank. Seniors in Kingston High School were eligible to enter and Sorosis has announced the winners to be:

Harry Stahl, first place, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stahl, 1 Columbia Street, Kingston; Gary Barten, second place, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Barten of 60 Florence Street, Kingston; Pam Kitchener, daughter of the Rev. J. W. Kitchener of Kingston; Colleen Woodward, honorable mention, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woodward, Melissa Street, Kingston.

Serving as judges were Mrs. Nancy S. Angeloch of Grenda, Stone Ridge; and Mrs. Jane Neroni of Stone Ridge.

All entries were judged on the basis of artistic promise. The winning piece will be entered in a district competition of which there are nine. The state finals will be held in April.

At a March 15 meeting of Sorosis held at the home of Mrs. Grover Lasher, Mrs. Henry Eighmey, president, announced plans are being made for an April fashion show. The show will be given by high school home economic students.

Guest speaker for the afternoon was the Rev. Clair F. Yohe. Introduced by Miss Martha Freer, program chairman, Rev. Yohe talked about "Telling It Like It Is in the Ulster County Prison." Rev. Yohe has been chaplain of the Ulster County Prison for five years. He described the general physical aspect of the jail and then shared his experiences as chaplain. Rev. Yohe believes that confinement in prison for prolonged periods of time does very little good and he favors an expanded parole system with shorter jail terms.

Miss Mary Newman poured during the social hour held after the program.

Sorosis is scheduled to meet on March 29 at the home of Miss Harriet Church in High Falls.

Host Families Urgently Needed This Summer

By DOROTHY NAREL

If ever you wanted to do something about promoting greater understanding between countries, now is your opportunity. MRS. NESTOR BRYANT of MT. TEMPER is trying to recruit families in this area for the American Host Program this summer. The program has placed several European teachers in Kingston area during the past years but this year more teachers will be brought to the United States thus the need for more Host Families in the East.

The American Host Family is a person-to-person project and it provides a marvelous opportunity for these European friends to gain a realistic and truthful understanding of our American life.

During the 1971 program, visiting teachers will be with Host Families during the period of July 3 through September 4. Host Family commitments are for one or two week periods during this time. Host Families will be notified of their assignments by May 20. Organizations such as the Jaycees, Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary, Zonta, Church Women United, women's clubs may also host a teacher.

There wouldn't be any language barrier since all visiting teachers are required to speak English. You would be required to meet the visiting teacher when he or she arrives and provide a room and meals for him for up to two weeks. As an adopted member of the Host Family, he should have the opportunity to meet friends and neighbors and become acquainted with the community.

There is something very unique about the American Host Program. It is the only one of its kind for elementary and secondary school teachers and though endorsed by member of Congress and government agencies, it obtains no funds whatsoever from our government. The program is founded through the non-profit American Host Foundation all of which is made possible through contributions from individuals, industry and the visiting teachers themselves who pay a major portion of the costs.

If you are interested in this program, contact Mrs. Bryant in Mt. Tremper for detailed information.

Open a door to understanding—host a foreign visitor this summer.

CYO Doll Show Slated For Saturday Afternoon

Leo A. Schupp, Ulster County Director for the Catholic Youth Organization, announced today that the annual CYO Doll Show will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. Mary's School in Kingston. Young ladies attending elementary school may submit entries for judging in any of the 18 classes of entry. Mrs. Frank Graney, chairman of this event, will be on hand from 12:30 to 2 o'clock with the committee to assist the entrants in placing their dolls in the proper classes. First, second and third place winners will be awarded 'CYO' ribbons. Judging will start at 2 p.m. and no dolls can be entered after that time. Girls attending parochial schools may enter by obtaining entry blanks from the school principal, others may enter just before the show and will be assisted by the committee.

CYO Director Schupp also announced winners of recent CYO sponsored activities here in Ulster County. St. Mary of the Snows cheerleading squad won the county contest and with St. Mary's of Kingston competed in the Archdiocesan Cheer Leading Contest at Fordham University Gymnasium.

Sean Roches, a student at John A. Coleman High School, represented Ulster County in the Teen Age Oratorical Contest at Sparkill and received a runner-up award. Sean was awarded first place in the Ulster Oratory. A Gold CYO Medal was awarded to Eugene A. Loughlin of Esopus, a student at Kingston Catholic Middle School, for his winning short story entitled, "The Great Escape," while a silver medal was awarded to Francis Whittle of St. Augustine's School in Highland for his "The Big Snow Storm" in the recent Ulster CYO. Short Story Contest.

Honorable Mention — Fourth place — Martha Hill, 46 Burgevin Street Kingston, of St. Joseph's Parish, awarded CYO Silver Medal; Honorable Mention — Fifth place — Beth Hill, 46 Burgevin Street, of St. Joseph's School, Kingston awarded CYO Bronze Medal.

Schupp invited entry into the annual Talent Show and Musicales which will be held on Sunday May 2, and the annual CYO Art Show slated for April 24. He also suggested that youngsters who are interested in athletic activities should contact their parish priests, sisters, teachers or adults in their parishes. He says that CYO has just finished one of its most successful basketball seasons with six leagues for boys in various age divisions and one league for elementary girls.

Marist College Gives Children's Play Here

On March 19th, 720 students of the George Washington School were delightedly entertained by the Marist College Children's Theatre's interpretation of Peter Pan.

The George Washington Parent Teach Organization was responsible for bringing the group of Marist College students to the local school.

The purpose of the Children's Theatre is to bring the magic of make-believe to all children. The Marist-group is a non-profit, student organization started only two years ago by Joseph DeTura, a student at the college. Since its inception, the efforts of the Children's Theatre have been enthusiastically received by children of all ages. The "Cinderella" and "The Wizard of Oz" played to capacity audiences in the Marist Theatre. Last year, the show was trouped to Appalachia and despite innumerable obstacles children who never had and probably never will see a live play were brought the magic of fantasy.

The present production of the Children's Theatre has a cast of 60 energetic and talented performers.

In addition to the actual performance of the plays, the students design and make the sets, arrange the lighting and special effects and do their own direction.

Rondout Valley Band Concert Set

The Rondout Valley Central High School Bands and Director Lee Herrington are preparing to welcome members of the New Milford, N.J. bands who will arrive Friday for the first of the 1971 Exchange Concerts. After Saturday rehearsals, the bands will perform at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. New Milford bandmen, Director Charles Pickering and assistant director, Roger Blaine, will be house guests of various local band members and other community residents. After the concert, there will be dancing and refreshments will be served. Parents and all those attending the concert are invited to stay for refreshments. The New Milford Band, Wind Ensemble and Jazz

Ensemble, will present works by Russell Alexander, Clifton Williams, Frank Ericson, Albert Oliver Davis, John J. Morrissey, Jones and Schmidt, Harold Walters, Alfred Reed, Bob Lowden, Fred Karlin, Neal Hefti, Carl Strommen. Selections will include Colossus of Columbia, Swedish Festive Dances, The French Quarter, The Fantastic, Trumpets Wild, Lord Jeff, Cherry Float, All about the Blues, among others. After the intermission, Rondout Valley Bands will perform Tamerlane by Frank

Ericson, Vista Caribbean by James D. Ployhar, Finale by P.I. Tchaikowsky, Alla Barocca by Caesar Giovannini, and Poet and Peasant by Fran Van Suppe. As a finale the combined New Milford and Rondout Bands will present various selections including The Sound of Music and Folk Song Suite.

Woman for All Seasons — Betty Garrett

Have you heard about the woman who takes off 15 years and 20 pounds in 12 minutes?

She's Betty Garrett, co-starring with Larry Parks in Neil Simon's smash comedy, "Plaza Suite." Each woman has a different hair-do, wardrobe and make-up. The play will be staged in the Community Theatre on April 12 at 8:30 p.m.

In Act I Betty is Karen Nash, in her late forties, sloppy, dowdy, overweight, and losing her husband. She came back in Act II as Muriel Tate, seductive, in her early thirties. In Act III she puts all the years back as Norma Hubley, about 45, described by Betty as "terribly gussied up, with eternally blond hair, very Beauty Shop."

Being able to carry off these metamorphoses is a credit not only to Betty's considerable acting talent, but to her abilities as quick change artist, since she has only 12 minutes during the intermissions in which to transform herself.

"For each role I change from the skin out, stockings and everything," says the star. "I'm never really off stage during the entire play, so during intermissions I'm really scrambling."

As soon as she walks off stage at the end of Act I, she starts undressing on her way to the dressing room.

"While the make-up girl is putting eyeliner on, I'm doing something else, blending eyeshadow. The hairdresser is taking off the short-haired wig I wear in the first play, and brushing out the pincurls which held it on. In the second act I use a fall which I add to my own long hair."

"I put my dress on, and the hairdresser has done everything but fix my bangs which are all teased out and standing up by that time."

"We go out to the wings, and as the play starts, the bangs and the make-up are just being finished, and I'm putting on my coat. Usually we just make it by a split second. The doorbell rings and I go onstage."

The second intermission is just as hectic, and Betty says, "I really feel as if I've been through the mill when I'm through with the show."

In real life Betty has been married to co-star Larry Parks for twenty-five years, and is the mother of two teenage boys, Garrett and Andrew. Yet she comes closest to looking like the second character she plays in "Plaza Suite." She says she keeps her figure youthful and flexible by dancing.

She shows the padded harness-like device with which she achieves a misshapen look in the first play.

"It looks so natural that in Act I, people who haven't seen me in a while think I've let myself go," she laughs.

I like to think it's acting too, though," she adds.

"I seem to have done this a lot in my career, playing two or three different characters, going from someone very young to someone very old. In "Spoon River Anthology," which I did a few seasons ago with Theatre West in Los Angeles, I played 20 different characters and never left the stage. I went from an 80-year-old woman to a Chinese boy to a young girl. You can imagine that needed pretty good illusion! I did it completely with little hand props: hair ribbons, scarfs, glasses. In "Who's Happy Now?"

which I did at the Mark Taper Forum in Los Angeles October before last, I played a mother over a period of 18 to 20 years of her life — from 24 to 45; and that I did almost completely with hair.

"And I was in a Theatre West project, "The Cock May Crow," by John Liam. I played Jean Armour, the one great love of poet Robert Burns, from the time she was 19 until her forties. I did it with practically no help from make-up. By the time Burns died she'd gone through poverty and everything else, so I just took my rouge off to look poorer and paler, and put a bit of dark shadow under my eyes. I didn't have time for anything else.

"The trick is in the facial muscles," she reveals. "I once took a pantomime course and I spent as much time doing facial exercises as body exercises. I find that unconsciously I use this a great deal when I'm playing the difference between youth and old age."

"I hadn't thought about this consciously before, but the younger woman I portray in Act II of "Plaza Suite." I play with a lot of surprise and all the facial soften up. It's an attitude, I guess you'd say. Women should realize how important facial muscles are in appearing youthful.

ABA Lands Another Big One

Memphis Signs Johnny Neumann

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Johnny Neumann, some $2 million richer and with a "no cut, five year contract," was expected to take part in halftime "signing" ceremonies tonight at the Pros-Denver American Basketball Association game at the Mid-South Coliseum. Many suspect however, that Neumann, the nation's college basketball scoring leader from the University of Mississippi, already has signed with the Memphis club.

The agreement was announced in New York Tuesday by ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph, who said the contract was approved by the league's board of trustees in light of a decision that a draft limited to seniors was in violation of anti-trust laws.

However, Commissioner Wal Kennedy of the rival National Basketball Association announced Tuesday that under-graduates will not be eligible for his league's 1971 college player draft on Monday.

Kennedy met Monday with the NBA's Board of Governors. In an interview with the Memphis Commercial-Appeal, Neumann said playing professional basketball was his lifelong dream.

Neumann, the 6-6 sophomore forward who averaged 40.1 points per game, told the newspaper in a copyrighted story the decision was made because of personal hardships created by a heart attack suffered by his father in late February and by his marriage last summer.

Neumann's contract is believed to be a "league contract" similar to the one which Jacksonville's Artis Gilmore signed last week with the Kentucky Colonels franchise, the report said.

Pros Coach Babe McCarthy said Neumann would make a "great" swing man in either guard or forward and said he knew Neumann could "make it in the ABA."

The father, Robert H. Neumann, 60, was hospitalized Feb. 20 with the first heart attack and suffered another seizure while in the intensive care unit of Baptist Hospital.

"My father may never be able to work again," said Neumann. "Now I'm head of the household."

Robert (Cob) Jarvis, head basketball coach at Ole Miss, accepted Neumann's decision with mixed emotions.

"We at Ole Miss have always had a personal interest in our athletes above all else," Jarvis said. "In the present case we have kept abreast of the situation from the time of Mr. Neumann's attack."

"We know of the problems and conflicts Johnny has been faced with," the coach said. "Although we are sorry to lose the nation's leading scorer, we fully understand his decision."

"We consider his case a true hardship case," Jarvis said. Dolph said he had originally rejected the Neumann contract, but resubmitted it to the board of trustees after a recent ruling by Circuit Judge Warren Ferguson of California.

"The board agreed to the contract only on the advice of legal counsel," Dolph said. "And they feel that Judge Ferguson's ruling must be considered the law of the land until proven otherwise."

NFL Tabs 'Orleans for '72

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Super Bowl has been awarded to New Orleans—a compromise choice apparently forced upon National Football League owners by a strange series of unrealistic factors, including the tactics of a Miami attorney and the strength of the Dallas Cowboys.

In what may have been the toughest decision in their six years of selecting Super Bowl sites, the NFL owners Tuesday selected New Orleans to host pro football's premier spectacle on Jan. 16, 1972, following a long afternoon session requiring 14 ballots.

What ultimately paid off for New Orleans was the inability of either Miami, a three-time host, or Dallas, bidding for the game for the first time, to surmount the strikes against them and gather enough votes to win on any of the first 13 ballots.

Miami couldn't get the required minimum of 20 votes from the 26 owners for two reasons—the sentiment among the owners for shifting the game between American and National Conference cities and a Miami attorney.

The attorney in question is one Ellis Rubin, who this past January filed three lawsuits to have the local television blackout of the Super Bowl lifted so that Miami area fans could see the game from the Orange Bowl.

"No one's going to admit it publicly," said one club official. "But there were a lot of owners who wanted to get away from Rubin."

Dallas, meanwhile, qualified as an NFC city but was handicapped by two other factors—

Texas Stadium, the proposed site of the game, seats only 65,000 compared to the 80,000 in New Orleans' Tulane Stadium, and the Cowboys are a possible Super Bowl participant.

"I'm not saying it was a major factor, and it isn't to me, but the competitive thing may have kept Dallas from getting it more than any other city," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle. "If I were a club owner, I'd probably hate to play against a home team getting local support. Some clubs might have felt that would give them a competitive edge."

Fans Support Rule Change

NEW YORK (UPI)—If pro football fans had their way, the game's place-kicking specialists would be getting some added rest in the years ahead.

Fan reaction appears favorable to the National Football League rule proposal that would eliminate placing the ball for missed field goal attempts on the 20-yard line and change the placement to the line of scrimmage for all kicks outside the 20-yard line.

The NFL is considering the rule change at its annual meeting in Palm Beach, Fla., this week, and the proponents of the proposal feel coaches will think twice before ordering field-goal tries close to the 50-yard line if it meant risking giving the ball back to the opposition in good field position should a touchback result.

An informal sampling across the nation shows evidence that most fans agree, but Jim Wolf, 54, a season ticket holder with the Kansas City Chiefs said: "I'm against it. I think it would hurt our team since we have such a good field goal kicker in Jan Stenerud."

"I like it," said Vic Estes, a

Houston computer program. "I think kicking has been blown all out of proportion. Another reason, I never have understood why, if you can't advance the ball to the 40, kick a field goal and miss it, it automatically qualifies you to gain another 20 yards. Yes, I'd be in 100 per cent favor of it."

"No question about it, the rule will make a team think twice about kicking the long rule," said a Buffalo, N.Y. man. "Another man from Eggertsville, N.Y., agreed a change should be made. 'The proposal is a pretty rigid, but the game has become a game of specialists. My only change would be to argue. A Rensselaer, N.Y., technician echoed that sentiment. "It's not reasonable to reward a team for missing a field goal by advancing the ball."

A group of fans in St. Louis believed the change would increase runbacks which they felt were more exciting than field goals anyway. A local bartender said: "What team would attempt a field goal from farther out than, say, the 35-yard line, if they knew they'd be giving the other team an excellent field position?"

Rangers Clinch 2nd Place

SORRY, NO GOAL — Sabres Goalie Dave Dryden deflects the puck as he stops a goal attempt by the Rangers at Garden. Rangers clinched second place in the NHL's East division and went over the 100-point mark for the first time in their history by routing the Sabres, 7-2. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

NEW YORK (AP) — With second place in the National Hockey League's East Division safely nailed down following a 7-2 romp over the Buffalo Sabres Tuesday night, the New York Rangers can spend the remaining two weeks of the regular season sharpening their game for the playoffs.

The same goes for the Minnesota North Stars, who clinched a playoff berth in the West by whipping Los Angeles 3-1. In Tuesday night's only other NHL game, Vancouver turned back St. Louis 4-1.

A three-game losing streak—their longest of the season—had delayed New York's second place clinching but the Rangers got well in a hurry against the expansionist Sabres. New York blasted a season-high 50 shots and six players shared in the scoring with Vic Hadfield connecting twice.

The champs, of course, are the powerhouse Bruins. Their leading scorer, Phil Esposito, has 67 goals and 141 total points. The Rangers' leading scorer, Walt Tkaczuk, has 24 goals and 69 total points.

Minnesota got two power play goals and scored another while short-handed to knock off LA and nail down a West playoff berth.

Danny Grant's 32nd goal of the season got the North Stars started in the first period and then Ted Hampson converted his third short-handed goal since coming to Minnesota one month ago in a trade with California.

Ted Harris' power play slap shot caromed off LA defenseman Larry Cahoon for Minnesota's wrapup goal. The victory left Minnesota in third place in the West, five points ahead of idle Philadelphia and 13 up on fifth place Pittsburgh. The Penguins have six games remaining, a potential 12 points which would still be one shy of Minnesota's total should the North Stars lose, their remaining five games.

Andrew Boudrias powered Vancouver past St. Louis with a pair of power play goals while Danny Johnson and Bobby Schmautz also scored for the Canucks. Terry Crisp averted a shutout for St. Louis.

Regular Season Ends

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cleveland Cavaliers tied a National Basketball Association record against Portland but it was the Trail Blazers that did the celebrating.

Portland's 114-112 victory over Cleveland enabled the Cavaliers to match the mark for losses by an NBA team. They finished the season Tuesday night with a 15-67 record, the same established by San Diego in 1967-68.

The game was the last scheduled for the regular season in the NBA. Playoff games begin tonight in Baltimore between the Bullets and the Philadelphia 76ers, and in Los Angeles between the Lakers and the Chicago Bulls.

In American Basketball Association games, the Memphis Pros defeated the New York Nets 117-110, and the Utah Stars dropped the Denver Rockets 124-117.

Geoff Petrie scored 37 points for the Trail Blazers. It brought his season total to 2,031 and made him the seventh player in NBA history to score more than 2,000 points in the rookie year.

Portland led until Petrie's 22-foot jump shot gave the Trail Blazers a 113-112 edge with 21 seconds left. Stan McKenzie added a free throw with three remaining.

Wesley led Cleveland with 35 points.

Memphis celebrated the signing of Mississippi's Johnny Neumann by jumping to a 15-point lead in the first quarter.

The best New York could do was close the gap to six in the fourth quarter.

Wendall Ladner and Steve Jones led the Pros with 26 points each. Rick Barry hit 29 for the Nets.

The Utah Stars got a first-place tie with the Indiana Pacers in the Western Division with their victory. Willie Wise led the winners with 28 points and Denver's Larry Cannon led all players with 38.

The Stars led 53-51 at halftime before the Rockets managed to take the edge several times in the second half. Utah got the final lead with 6:38 remaining.

FISHING CONTEST

MONTH OF APRIL

See Ad on Back Page Tempo Saturday, March 27

Five new opponents and a rare Sunday game highlight the 1971 varsity baseball schedule at New Paltz State, announced today by Bruce Goldberg, Sports Information Director.

Also released were the upcoming slates for Hawk tennis, golf, and track teams.

The State diamond forces have a new coach in Pete Kramer this season and schedule makers have instituted several changes in their department to help him look for a win.

New Paltz lost all its outings under Joe Owens last year and combined with several defeats near the end of the season before, stretched the Hawks winless streak to close to 20.

Kramer, the former Saugerties High School mentor, will lead his charges onto the field for the first time against Quinpiak at home on Tuesday, April 6.

The 16-game schedule includes two doubleheaders, both away. A Sunday single is set for May 2 with Potsdam doing the visiting. It marks the first Sabbath game ever on a regular New Paltz schedule. A twinbill with Potsdam several years ago was moved to Sunday after being washed out on Saturday.

Baruch, Queens, Paterson State, Siena, and Western Connecticut represent the new challenges for the Birds, who are hoping to find a couple of pushovers in the group. All of the five have played Hawk teams in other sports at one time, but this will be the first year they

NEW PALTZ have met on the diamond. Spotlights the tennis calendar for New Paltz is the annual State University Athletic Conference tournament, which the Hawks will host on May 7 and 8. Bob Durkin is the NP net instructor and has to ready his team in time for its first meet, April 6 at Fairfield of Connecticut.

The Hawks will be on the road for four contests before opening at home on April 30 against Plattsburg.

Carlton, a 20-game winner in 1969, slipped to 10-19 a year ago. Tuesday he worked seven strong innings, yielding only two runs, as the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the Cincinnati Reds 5-2 with Jose Cardenal collecting two doubles and two singles.

Tiant, once a star with Cleveland, turned in a deceptive 1970 record of 7-3 with Minnesota, but the Twins got him scads of runs and he was beset by injuries much of the year. His contribution Tuesday was four innings, one run, four hits, two walks and four strikeouts in the Twins' 8-3 romp over the Atlanta Braves.

John, counted to be half of the Chicago White Sox' 1-2 pitching punch, finished with a 12-17 record. He stifled the New York Yankees on one run through seven innings Tuesday and the White Sox pushed across a run in the eighth to win 4-3. Tom Egan, who also homered, swatted his third double of the game and tallied the winning run on Tom McCraw's single.

Griffin, an impressive 1969 rookie, spent part of last season nursing his sore arm in the minors after compiling a 3-13 record and sky-high 5.76 earned run average with Houston.

Tuesday, the Astros battered the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-3 and Griffin went six innings, allowing three hits and three runs, two of them unearned.

But Tuesday's pitching hero was Shoji Murata of Japan's Lotte Orions. He pitched a complete game six-hitter and fanned 13 in a 9-4 triumph over the Cleveland Indians. It was the 22-year-old right-hander's second route-going effort, the first coming against California.

The Angels didn't have to face Murata this time but had their troubles with the San Diego Padres, who scored twice in the ninth and held off California 5-4. Tommy Dean, who drove in his first run of the spring earlier in the game, brought home the tie-breaker with a single.

Some other strong pitching was turned in by Detroit's Joe Coleman, who stopped Kansas City 6-1 with seven good innings and received home run support from Norm Cash, Willie Horton, Aurelio Rodriguez and Dalton Jones.

Jerry Janeski, recently traded to Washington, blanked Montreal for five innings and the Senators won 4-3. Joe Foy drove in three runs with a homer and double and Frank Howard also homered.

Ray Newman, Joe Decker

and Juan Pizarro teamed up for a six-hitter as the Chicago Cubs whipped San Francisco 8-0.

But Baltimore's Jim Palmer was pounded for six runs in six innings in a 7-4 loss to Pittsburgh. Al Oliver, Bob Robertson, Richie Hebner and Richie Zisk homered for the Pirates.

And Oakland's Chuck Dobson was raked for six runs in five frames as the Milwaukee Brewers made off with a 9-3 victory.

Finally, the New York Mets scored an unearned run in the 11th inning on a walk, throwing error and Tim Lincecum's sacrifice fly and nipped the Boston Red Sox 5-4.

Hurlers Have Edge on Hitters

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spring training is that time of year when the pitchers are supposed to be ahead of the hitters, but last year Steve Carlton, Luis Tiant, Tommy John and Tom Griffin weren't ahead of anybody.

Such wasn't the case Tuesday as all four question-mark hurlers turned in impressive exhibition outings.

Carlton, a 20-game winner in 1969, slipped to 10-19 a year ago. Tuesday he worked seven strong innings, yielding only two runs, as the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the Cincinnati Reds 5-2 with Jose Cardenal collecting two doubles and two singles.

Tiant, once a star with Cleveland, turned in a deceptive 1970 record of 7-3 with Minnesota, but the Twins got him scads of runs and he was beset by injuries much of the year. His contribution Tuesday was four innings, one run, four hits, two walks and four strikeouts in the Twins' 8-3 romp over the Atlanta Braves.

John, counted to be half of the Chicago White Sox' 1-2 pitching punch, finished with a 12-17 record. He stifled the New York Yankees on one run through seven innings Tuesday and the White Sox pushed across a run in the eighth to win 4-3. Tom Egan, who also homered, swatted his third double of the game and tallied the winning run on Tom McCraw's single.

Griffin, an impressive 1969 rookie, spent part of last season nursing his sore arm in the minors after compiling a 3-13 record and sky-high 5.76 earned run average with Houston.

Tuesday, the Astros battered the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-3 and Griffin went six innings, allowing three hits and three runs, two of them unearned.

But Tuesday's pitching hero was Shoji Murata of Japan's Lotte Orions. He pitched a complete game six-hitter and fanned 13 in a 9-4 triumph over the Cleveland Indians. It was the 22-year-old right-hander's second route-going effort, the first coming against California.

The Angels didn't have to face Murata this time but had their troubles with the San Diego Padres, who scored twice in the ninth and held off California 5-4. Tommy Dean, who drove in his first run of the spring earlier in the game, brought home the tie-breaker with a single.

Some other strong pitching was turned in by Detroit's Joe Coleman, who stopped Kansas City 6-1 with seven good innings and received home run support from Norm Cash, Willie Horton, Aurelio Rodriguez and Dalton Jones.

Jerry Janeski, recently traded to Washington, blanked Montreal for five innings and the Senators won 4-3. Joe Foy drove in three runs with a homer and double and Frank Howard also homered.

Ray Newman, Joe Decker

and Juan Pizarro teamed up for a six-hitter as the Chicago Cubs whipped San Francisco 8-0.

But Baltimore's Jim Palmer was pounded for six runs in six innings in a 7-4 loss to Pittsburgh. Al Oliver, Bob Robertson, Richie Hebner and Richie Zisk homered for the Pirates.

And Oakland's Chuck Dobson was raked for six runs in five frames as the Milwaukee Brewers made off with a 9-3 victory.

Finally, the New York Mets scored an unearned run in the 11th inning on a walk, throwing error and Tim Lincecum's sacrifice fly and nipped the Boston Red Sox 5-4.

Bonnie Meet Hawaiian Five

NEW YORK (AP) — It'll be St. Bonaventure's Brown Indians against Hawaii's unbrowned underdogs and the Engineers of Georgia Tech trying to claw Michigan's Wolverines in tonight's quarter-finals wrap-up in the National Invitational Tournament.

The winners will be back on the court against each other in the second half of Thursday night's semifinals. North Carolina and Duke, a pair of Atlantic Coast Conference clubs and victors in Monday night's quarter-finals, start off Thursday night's semis.

Hawaii, with "hot pants" basketball shorts and hula girl cheerleaders, still managed to keep the attention of the Madison Square Garden fans on the game Monday night as they rallied from 14 points down to squeeze by Oklahoma 88-87 in double overtime.

The Bonnies had an easier time of it in their opening-round game, a 94-79 smothering of Purdue.

Hawaii Coach Red Rocha admitted he has no idea how his Rainbows will stand up against the Bonnies. "We're quick," he said, "but they're quicker."

The star-gazers in the stands will be drawn to the Michigan game being directed by sophomore Henry Wilmore and Rich Yunkus commanding the Tech attack.

Wilmore, a 6-foot-4 guard, appeared below form despite a 22-point output in the Wolverines' opening-round triumph over Syracuse. Yunkus, 6-9½, canned 27 to pace the Engineers over LaSalle.

Dunham Skein Ends At '13'

Saugerties Pistons scored 14 points in the fourth quarter to edge Dunham Tunnel of the Recreation Biddy Basketball League, 50-48, and end a 13-game winning streak of the local club.

Dunham's had previously beaten the Pistons in a game at Saugerties and had romped through the Biddy League with a perfect record.

The losers opened up a 13-9 lead in the first quarter but the Pistons, fired up by John Spiers' fine shooting closed the gap to 23-22 at halftime and played Dunham's even (14-14) in the third quarter.

Spiers emerged as the individual scoring leader with 29 points. Norm Halsenbaug added 11 for the Pistons.

Rick Meiers closed out the season with another fine scoring stint for Dunham's with 25 points on nine fields and seven free throws. Cliff Lyons, another Biddy scoring star, contributed 19 points, sixteen from the field.

The score:

NFA Moves to Second in Final State Ratings

SCHENECTADY Mount Vernon High School's basketball team, authors of a 21-1 record and a second-place finish in the Washington, D.C. Knights of Columbus Invitational Tournament, has been named as the top team in New York State by the New York State Scholastic Sportswriters Association in the final poll.

The Goldbacks of Newburgh, on the strength of their fifth-place finish in the tourney, have jumped from third to second place while St. Agnes of Rockville Centre, Long Island, fell from the top spot to third place. Newburgh was 21-1 for the season. St. Agnes was 19-1.

The Goldbacks started off the season as the Number-One ranked team in New York State. However, they were dropped to third place behind St. Agnes and Mount Vernon. Although NFA hadn't lost a game, the rap against them stemmed from the fact that scholastic sportswriters voting in the ratings felt that the NFA schedule wasn't as tough as those played by the other two schools.

When all three teams were invited to the Washington tourney, it was expected that the mythical New York State Scholastic title would be resolved. Newburgh dropped the opener to defending champion, St. Anthony's of Washington, 66-56, while Mount Vernon defeated Washington's Bell High, 87-71, and St. Agnes toppled Mount Carmel, Chicago, 66-63.

In the consolation round, Newburgh bounced back to trounce Gordon Tech., 96-89, setting a record for the most points scored by a team in the tourney.

Mount Vernon broke the record in the semi-finals as they routed St. Agnes, 103-71. The Goldbacks topped Mount Carmel, 78-71, for fifth place and won the consolation and comeback trophies. St. Agnes downed St. Anthony's 75-67 while Mount Vernon lost to McKinley Tech of Washington, 84-78, in the finals.

All three teams posted 2-1 records for the tourney. And, although St. Agnes took third in the event, sportswriters from New York in attendance felt that NFA was much more impressive than the Rockville Centre quintet and boosted Coach Mickey Burkoski's team from third to second.

In the small school division, Whitney Point, Medina and Ravena are listed in the top three spots. Whitney and Medina finished at 20-1 each with Ravena going undefeated, 20-0. Depew, Syracuse Sacred Heart and Geneva DeSales are listed as fourth, fifth and sixth.

Highland Falls remains ranked 20th in the small-school division.

Bill Bunetta in Action

Bill Bunetta KBA Speaker

KINGSTON Classic champion California Bombers in 1963. He captained the Professional Bowlers Association tour and a member of the AMF Staff of Champions.

Bill Bunetta, one time regular in the Kingston Bowling Association's Hall of Fame dinner Saturday, April 3, at the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

The KBA will induct five living members into the Hall of Fame, four of them for bowling excellence — Chris Gallo, John Schatzel, William Kuehn and Howard I. Spaulding. A fifth inductee, William (Bill) Mohr is being cited for meritorious service to bowling.

A 25-year veteran of the ten-lane, Bunetta has a flock of outstanding achievements to his credit. He compiled a 10-year ABC average of 208, was a member of five World Champion teams, seven times a finalist in the BPAA All Star and a finalist in the World Invitational in 1960 and 1964.

On the ABC level, he was a member of the 1952 team champions (E&B) in 1952; rolled with the 2nd place ABC Classic Fresno Bombers in 1962 and was a member of the ABC of the KBA board.

Rich Koegel Picked For 2nd DCSL Team

POUGHKEEPSIE Saugerties High School cage star, Rich Koegel, was named to the second team of the Coaches' All-Dutchess County Scholastic League Central Section squad. Koegel, who paced the Sawyers with his outstanding play, was the only SHS player to make either the first or second team. Jerry Malgieri and Dave Smith were named as honorable mention.

Koegel, a 6-2½ center-forward, averaged 17.6 points-per-game, appearing in 17 of his team's 18 tilts. The rangy junior also led his team in rebounding with 231 for a 14-per-game average and dished out 68 assists. Koegel was named as one of the top ten players in Ulster County by the sports staff of the Daily Freeman.

Al Quigley, senior from Poughkeepsie High School, was voted by the coaches as the DCSL's Most Valuable Player. The 6-4 forward averaged 17.3 points-per-game.

Joining Quigley on the first team are: Jerome Williamson, Beacon, the leading scorer in the Central Section with a 20.9 average; Mike Hart, senior, Roy C. Ketcham — 18.4 points-per-game; Brad McAlester, Roosevelt, senior — 16.6 points-per-game; Roury Williams, John Jay, junior — 20.7 average.

RICH KOEGEL

Gerry Marquardt, Roosevelt High School mentor, was named as Coach of the Year. Marquardt's team outdistanced everyone else for the DCSL crown with a 13-1 league record. Marquardt has coached such outstanding players as: Rich Rinaldi, St. Peter's College All-American and this year's sixth leading scorer in the nation with a 28-point average in 1968-69, bonus baby for the Oakland entry in the ABA.

Dear Abby

She's a Bigamist

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)
DEAR ABBY: My husband and I separated in November of '69 for a year. We are now back together and happier than ever. My problem is that during that year I lived with another man. In fact, I married him. I know that makes me a bigamist. I told my real husband about it and he said he doesn't care as long as we are together and happy now.
My questions: What would the law do to me if they found out? And how can I correct this big mistake?
MASSACHUSETTS MESS
DEAR MESS: Under Massachusetts law, the penalty for bigamy is, state prison for not more than five years; or jail for not more than 2½ years; or a fine of not more than $500. (The choice is the judge's, not the bigamist's.)
In Massachusetts a bigamist need not do anything about a second or bigamous marriage because it is no marriage at all, and is void without a decree of divorce or other legal process. However, there may be advantages of having the bigamous marriage judicially annulled, but it is best to wait six years until the time to prosecute has run out.

I advise you to consult a lawyer. The law is full of exceptions and unique situations and it is dangerous to generalize. Besides, I don't have a license to practice law in the state of Massachusetts. (Or any other state.)
DEAR ABBY: We purposely do not have ashtrays in our home because we don't want people to smoke in our house. Yet some folks will look for an ashtray, and when they don't find any they will smoke anyway and use anything else that is handy. (The saucer of a coffee cup, a candy dish, waste-paper basket, or even put the ashes in their cupped hand!)
Is there any way we can let people know that we do not want smoking in our home?
HATES SMOKE
DEAR HATES: Yes, you could tell 'em!
DEAR ABBY: I have never hit a woman in my life, but I have come mighty close to it a couple of times in the last few months.

My wife uses my razor to shave her legs and she leaves the used blade in the razor. This gets me hopping mad and she knows it, but does it anyway.
Don't tell me to buy her a razor exactly like mine because I've done that, but she uses mine anyway. I have also given her an electric shaver designed especially for ladies, but it's still in the original box. Any suggestions before I belt her one?
DEAR MIKE: Either take your razor to work with you, or lock it up when you leave.
DEAR ABBY: In regards to the mother who wanted some idea of how much to charge her son when he returned from Vietnam. She should be thankful he's coming back. On the other hand, he might have gotten zapped, and she'd have collected $15,000.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

Thursday, March 25

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to organize activities and clear the decks so that you will be able to start those new interests soon that are in the back of your mind, but which are not quite ready to be put in operation. Take a look at all kinds of possessions, artistic as well as practical and see that they are in good order.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you get advice from a prominent person, you can easily take care of any pending, annoying problems. Show that you are practical. Follow your hunches and all works out fine.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) State your aims to good friends and gain their cooperation so they can become an active part of your life. Plan to attend social functions to which you are invited. Dress well for best results.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Confer privately with a bigwig you know and you can get your highest ambitions on the road with alacrity. Become a truly successful person. Show that you are clever where civic work is concerned, also.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have a clever friend who can accompany you to some new place where you get the results you want of a business or private nature. Set up appointment early. Then carry through in a positive way.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A more modern approach is wise if you want to be more successful in business or creative, personal avenues of life. Doing whatever mate desires helps a good deal, too. Have the harmony you want.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have some good ideas that will help an associate cooperate with you more now. State them early and get right results. You receive acclaim from public for any outstanding civic work you do.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) See what is expected of you by others so that there can be more harmony in the future. Purchase artistic pieces that make your abode more attractive. Introduce more culture into your life.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)

Quick Quiz

Q—What annual sporting event held in Washington, D.C., has no parallel anywhere else in the world?

Q—Which is the world's largest sculptured work of art?
A—The Old Testament of the Bible. The ancient Hebrew law forced a creditor to release the raisins and 85 per cent of a debtor from his obligation after seven years.
Q—Where is the first reference to a statute of limitations on debts?
A—The Old Testament of the Bible. The ancient Hebrew law forced a creditor to release the raisins and 85 per cent of a debtor from his obligation after seven years.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

THAT! (Q) If a girl I go with doesn't start getting serious, I'm fine and have a lot of fun with her. If she starts talking about love or going steady I get scared.
I like talking to girls and being around them, kissing them, and holding their hands. But the idea of actually making love to one scares me to death.
I guess it's because I think it's dirty or wrong.
Is there something the matter with me? I'm 18.—Not That Far in North Carolina.
(A) I daresay that if you would ask around among your friends you would find a number who feel much as you do. You are sensitive, and self-conscious, and still growing up. More important, you have not found the girl you want to spend the rest of your life with. You may not find her for years.
When you do find her, and awake to the fact that she WANTS you to make love to her, and that what she and you want together is not dirty or wrong, things will be different.
LEATHER: (Q) Could you tell me if leather suits are OK to wear in the spring? I have a leather vest and pants and I just love to wear them.—Leather Britches in Northern New York.
(A) Because leather is hot in warm weather, it is good only for fall, winter, and early spring. In some parts of the country, spring is already well advanced. But where you are it is probably still cool.
You should have a few more days or weeks. Watch the other girls. When they shed their leather, shed yours.
(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

'Search' Hard to Describe

NEW YORK (AP) — It is hard to describe ABC's latest "Movie of the Week." The unusual Tuesday night show was called "In Search of America" and was obviously the ambitious pilot for a future series.

While it started as an earnest effort to explain the younger generation in sympathy terms to the older one, it wound up with the wisdom and common sense of the solid, conservative oldsters prevailing.

Off-beat in concept but frequently banal and cliché-ridden, it was the story of a middle-class American family, the Olsons—mother, father and grandmother—who decide to tag along with son Mike when he drops out of college and see the country and find himself.

The family set off merrily in an elderly, remodeled bus and almost immediately camped out at a rock festival.

Much of the segment was filmed at a real rock festival, but as shown on television, this one seemed as tame and cozy as a family campsite at Yellowstone Park. True, the Olsons parked their bus next to a young couple determined to have their baby naturally—without doctor's help. And in one scene a girl rolled a cigarette and lit it, suggesting strongly no tobacco was involved. But for the rest, it was all clean living and love as the Olsons were educated. There was also a subplot, strictly soap opera style, about a young girl running away from a kidney machine that was keeping her alive.

"In Search of America" didn't make ABC's next season schedule, probably because it came a bit after the parade was over.

Carl Betz and Vera Miles played the parents, and Ruth McDevitt was the grandmother.

Forty years ago the late Walter Wyman wrote an article entitled, "How to Tell a Bath Coup from a Bath Tub."

The classic Bath coup occurs when the king is opened and declarer plays small from ace-jack-small. If the suit is continued declarer collects two tricks instead of one. If there is a shift declarer still has control of that first suit.

When today's hand was played in a duplicate game and East opened anything but a heart the declarer had no trouble making nine tricks. At a few tables West led the heart 10. That led separated the sheep from the goats.

Every declarer covered with dummy's jack. East covered in turn with the queen. If any declarer was foolish enough to win with the ace he lived to regret it. Eventually West would get in with the ace of diamonds and lead a second heart, whereupon East would cash four heart tricks. If any declarer made this play, we would have to drop him to the foot of our class.

If South lets East hold that

A New Effort on 1971 Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan effort to get all U.S. troops out of Southeast Asia by the end of the year is being announced this week, it has been learned. The lobby will feature independent but similar drives in the House and Senate, with special emphasis on attracting lawmakers who have supported Johnson and Nixon administration war policies. Helping coordinate the effort is Common Cause, a Washington-based citizens lobby headed by John Gardner, former secretary of health, education and welfare.

The campaign, called Coalition to Help End the War, is one of several recent efforts on Capitol Hill aimed at getting the United States out of Vietnam. The drive actually started last week with a letter to senators from Sen. Charles McC.

Mathias, R-Md., and Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii. They asked support for a statement favoring "the termination of all American military action in or over Indochina and the withdrawal of all American military forces from Indochina this year."

No legislation or formal resolutions are involved so far. Sources close to the effort said the goal is to get a simple numerical Senate majority to sign the Mathias-Inouye statement and 218 representatives to sign a similar statement in the House.

It was understood the House letter is running into trouble from Republicans. "Many Republicans don't want to seem to be the tail on the Democratic kite," one source said. "They're afraid of seeming to be merely a side show."

Several bills and resolutions already have been introduced in the House this session aimed at speeding U.S. withdrawal from South Vietnam.

House Democrats have announced a March 31 caucus will consider a proposal supporting U.S. withdrawal by Dec. 31.

An early draft of the House proposal that would go out as part of the new Common Cause-assisted drive calls for total withdrawal of all U.S. forces—including supporting troops and air power personnel—by the end of this year, as did the Mathias-Inouye letter.

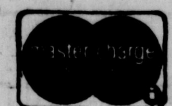

The draft also urged House members to vote against any appropriations and related measures that would finance the war beyond Dec. 31.

The Calley Jurors Ask For Another Read-Back

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Unaware of a defense demand that they be prodded to work harder toward a verdict, Lt. William L. Calley's murder trial jurors asked for yet another read-back of testimony today.

It is the eighth day of their deliberations in the My Lai trial that has spanned the seasons from autumn into spring—the longest court-martial in history.

The request was for the testimony of Sidney Kye of Kansas City, Kan., who had said he saw Calley firing into what appeared to him to be a ditch, and Daniel Hill, a helicopter crew chief who said in a deposition he saw bodies there before Calley and his men entered the village.

Calley is charged with killing at least 70 people at that ditch, the main execution site according to the government.

The other site was at the crossing of two village trails, where Calley is accused of killing at least 30. The trail incident occurred first.

The jurors already had listened for the second time to testimony of 10 witnesses—eight prosecution and two defense. All testified early in the four months of the trial.

Calley's attorney, George Latimer, protested the readings and became even more incensed Monday when he saw newspaper stories that the jurors watched television in the evening and had a few after-dinner drinks.

"I worked 18 hours a day, almost seven days a week, during the trial," the 70-year-old Latimer protested. "This is not a siesta. This is serious business. We've got a man's life at stake."

The trial judge said, "I don't propose to take any action at this time."

Five States Give OK To the 18-Year Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five states have approved a constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18, launching the ratification process aimed at extending the franchise to 11 million Americans before next year's elections.

Minnesota and Delaware legislators approved the proposed 26th Amendment Tuesday less than an hour after the House, in a 400-19 vote, completed congressional action. Tennessee, Connecticut and Washington followed quickly.

Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., in a speech on the floor of the House of Representatives Tuesday, urged his colleagues to support the proposed constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18.

"The political history of this nation has been one of steadily broadening the franchise over 175 years. First property ownership was a restriction which had to be removed. Later barriers of sex and color had to be overcome by a constitutional amendment. Today the time has come to take the further step to lower the voting age to enfranchise those 18, 19 and 20 years of age," Fish concluded.

Thirty-eight state legislatures must ratify the amendment before it becomes a part of the Constitution. The 10 amendments approved in this century have required an average of 15 months for ratification.

The amendment provides no citizen 18 or older may be denied the vote in any election on account of age. The practical effect is to allow persons 20, 19 or 18 to vote in state and local elections.

Congress approved last year a bill reducing the voting age to 18 for all elections. But the Supreme Court held the law could apply only in federal elections, that states have the right to set their own voting qualifications.

The new amendment swept through the Senate two weeks ago by a vote of 94 to 0.

Twenty states have beaten efforts in the past 10 years to lower their voting age to 18. But backers of the 26th Amendment predict last year's Supreme Court decision will result in quick ratification.

Without a uniform lower voting age, the court ruling will require states and local governments to set up dual election machinery: One set of voting machines for persons over 21 and another set for younger voters.

Backers of the 18-year vote predict financially pressed state legislatures will quickly ratify the amendment, rather than face the added election expense.

The amendment will have no effect in Georgia, Kentucky and Alaska: they already allow 18-year-olds to vote. Twenty is the minimum voting age in Hawaii, Maine and Nebraska, while persons 19 and older may vote in Massachusetts, Minnesota and Montana.

Navy's Black Officers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy, which has fewer black officers than the other services, plans to open Reserve Officer Training Corps courses at two largely Negro colleges—Savannah State in Georgia and Southern University, Baton Rouge, La.

At present there is only one Navy ROTC program at a predominantly black school, Prairie View A&M in Texas.
